MRS. WEBB, DYING, NAMED POISONER

AMOSKEAG MILLS TO CLOSE SATURDAY

Manchester, Oct. 4.—Amoskeag Manufacturing Company will shut down all of its mills, with the exception of the worsted department, Saturday noon. The following notice was posted by the company today:

"Conditions in our business necessitate an immediate curtailment in our cotton department at this time. Accordingly this department will be closed Saturday noon, October 6, for an indefinite period.

"As business improves and we are able to start various looms, notices will appear in the newspapers.

"The worsted and chemical departments will not be affected and will run as usual."

The textile strike cost the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company a huge sum of money, it was reported by Treasurer Frederick C. Dumaine, who, at the annual meeting of the stockholders, declared prospects are not encouraging.

Instead of the profits netted in the past, an operating loss of $75,000 was incurred last year. Officers of the company said the strike kept the mills idle for nearly half the corporate year. Notwithstanding this, the company is carrying a profit and loss and reserve account of $33,500,000.

BRIDEGROOM HELD IN $50,000 CAR THEFTS

Boston & Maine freight car thefts and thefts from cars of the American Express Company totalling $50,000 were uncovered today when two B. & M. switchmen were arrested on suspicion.

In the locker room of one were found overcoats stolen from a freight car. On his person were found pawn tickets, which railroad police said would result in the recovery of $50,000 worth of stolen merchandise.

While the men were being put through a third degree at police headquarters detectives hunted three women of the "underlain" type, on whom one of the men is alleged to have squandered a fortune. They will be arrested and held in connection with receiving stolen property.

WORD-CRAZY MAN JAILED; HE STEALS DICTIONARIES

New York, Oct. 4.—A passion for words today landed John J. Freschi, 75-year-old clerk, in jail again.

Freschi, who became a vocabulary of 100,000 words, was charged with stealing two dictionaries from a Fifth avenue store. He has served three penitentiary terms for similar offences.

The court, in imposing sentence of six months to two years, remarked that the prisoner now would have time to memorize additional words.

GIRLS' PHOTOS FURNISH CLEW IN HEADLESS MYSTERY CRIME

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 4.—Investigation of Pittsburgh's headless murder mystery today centred around the identity of three girls, a snapshot of whom was found in the clothing of the torso of a white man when it was discovered yesterday in the girl's dressing room of the South Side bathing beach, situated along the Monongahela river.

A trail of blood led a group of boys to a pile of rocks, 175 feet from the dressing room where the man's head was found buried more than a foot deep in the sand. Near the spot was found a suit of blood-stained underclothing, leading detectives to believe that the head was wrapped in the garment and carried to the spot.

GIRL DYING, STUDENT IS ARRESTED

Horsch, Haverhill Football Star, Implicated in Illegal Operation

Haverhill, Oct. 4.—Arnold T. Horsch, nineteen years old, will appear in Salem District Court Saturday to answer to a charge of being accessory in an illegal operation.

On that day he was to have played quarterback on the Exeter Academy football team in its opening game with the Dartmouth freshmen.

"Doctor" Thwing, a garage and taxicab owner and former baker of Georgetown, charged with performing the operation, will go to trial at the same time.

Meanwhile, pretty Marion D. McLeod, nineteen years old, Horsch's sweetheart, is on the danger list in the Gale Hospital in this city. She was taken to the hospital in a dying condition, and little hope is held for her recovery.

ACCUSES STUDENT

According to the officials, the alleged illegal operation took place in Topsfield on August 31. The girl became ill following the operation, and Dr. Harry B. Perkins was called into the home of Mrs. Laura Donovan, No. 15 How street, Haverhill, where the girl roomed. Dr. Perkins called Dr. Leroy T. Stokes for consultation. Because of Miss McLeod's dangerous condition, they ordered her removed to the hospital, and notified Captain Irving G. Hussey of the Haverhill police.

Miss McLeod was re-operated on at the hospital on September 12, according to the authorities. The surgeons held no hope for her recovery, and the next day, the police took what was believed to be the girl's death-bed statement, which implicated Horsch and Thwing. Their arrest followed.

Both were arraigned in the Salem District Court. Thwing was released on $5,000 bail, and Horsch on $500 bail, and the case was continued.

Horsch is alleged to have been present when the illegal operation took place. The case is being prosecuted by State Detective William F. Murray of Lynn. Associated with

STEAL U. S. RADIO AT BROCKTON FAIR

Brockton, Oct. 4 (U.N.S.).—Robbers today looted the United States government's radio exhibit at the Brockton Fair, valued at $5,000.

The thieves made away with the entire government radio exhibit, under the noses of twenty employes required to keep the set in order and despite the fact that there were nearly 200 Brockton policemen patrolling the fair grounds.

The burglars made their getaway in an automobile.

COURT HOLDS GIRL IN $28,000 FORGERY

The alleged defalcations of Rose Fritz of No. 275 Walnut street, Roxbury, soared to a new total of more than $28,000 with the girl's arraignment today before Judge Thomas Dowd in Municipal Court.

She is accused of obtaining that sum by forgery and larceny from William Solomon, silk manufacturer, of No. 116 Chauncy street, who employed her as secretary. Judge Dowd fixed bail at $7,500. Trial was set for October 18.

Miss Fritz was arrested in Dorchester by Inspectors Dorsey and Augusta for the alleged larceny of $1,500 in money. Additional charges accusing her of theft of nearly $27,000 was filed upon her arraignment.

When questioned by the police as

FIRE CHIEF CHASES BURGLAR; SPRINGFIELD HOUSES ROBBED

Springfield, Oct. 4.—Five houses in the residential section known as "The Hill," were visited today by an enterprising burglar who took cash and jewelry valued at $200.

Fire Chief William H. Daggett of No. 72 Westminster street, lost $50 and a watch and barely saved his trousers.

Mrs. Daggett, was awakened as the burglar was leaving. Chief Daggett sprang from bed and gave chase. The thief escaped, leaving the trousers on the piazza.

Rev. Stanley F. Blomfield, No. 156 Buckingham street, was also robbed of $20 and a gold watch.

S. P. Thomas, No. 129 Sherman street, lost $20, valuable papers and jewelry. Fred W. Dalton, No. 74 Catherine street, was awakened and frightened away the burglar.

E. A. Pierce, No. 13 Buckingham place, lost $425.

NEW HAVEN LOSES $10,000 BY TRAIN'S RACE WITH FIRE

New Haven, Oct. 4.—A race with fire conducted by Engineer Black of a train from New York may cost the New Haven railroad $10,000, it is estimated today.

Notified at Milford that the rear end of an electric engine was on fire by a short circuit, Black, it is stated, did not slacken speed in the belief that the blaze was slight, and attempted to bring his train into New Haven on schedule.

The fire gained great speed with the speed of the train, and Black was forced to abandon his race and pull into West Haven. The flames had almost destroyed the interior of the engine.

ANOTHER QUAKE IN JAPAN; LIGHTS GONE, CITIZENS FLEE

GOMPERS FOR STRONG NAVY; HIS VIEWS HAVE CHANGED

Washington, Oct. 4.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has written a letter strongly endorsing the observance of October 27 as Navy Day, and saying his views on war and unpreparedness have changed since the outbreak of the World War.

"My ideas of preparedness have changed," said Mr. Gompers in his letter to Assistant Secretary Roosevelt.

"I really felt during my life that wars were unnecessary, that there could be some way to eliminate them. But nations are like individuals. There are times when a nation must defend her people and her institutions."

MRS. CHRISTY BAKER EATON WALSH

Her quest of "The Big Love Thrill" was not only not realized in four husbands but has led the Cambridge woman into court today on charges of bigamy.

GIRL, 4 TIMES WED, JAILED AS BIGAMIST

Mrs. Olive Beach Christy Baker Walsh, all-New England "College Widow," was arrested today.

Four times married, she faces trial for bigamy.

"I'm going to keep right on getting married until I find a man who will provide me with the big love thrill," she commented recently. But the police stepped in and checkmated further expeditions.

The woman was roused from her bed at No. 24 Prescott street, Cambridge, and arrested by Sergeant John E. Winslow.

Early in September, John W. Walsh, No. 49 Florid street, Newton Highlands, husband No. 4, filed a petition in the Middlesex County Probate Court to have his marriage annulled. He is twenty-five years old; she is twenty-eight.

He charged his wife had married

TOLD FEARS BEFORE SHE DIED

Dr. Meyer and Two Women In Sickroom of Heiress Heard Ante-Mortem Statement

New York, Oct. 4.—Before Mrs. Gertie Emily Gormar Webb, $2,000,000 heiress bride, died a week ago today she knew she had been poisoned with bichloride of mercury and told her attending physician the name of the person who gave it to her.

This startling development followed today the announcement of Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, Bellevue Hospital toxicologist, that he had found traces of bichloride of mercury in the dead woman's organs.

In another twenty-four hours he will have determined if there is present enough of this poison to have caused death.

The ante mortem statement, in which the heiress bride named what her friends term "the slayer," was given her attending physician, Dr. William J. Meyer.

He has already presented the statement and other information to the Westchester grand jury probing the heiress' mysterious death.

In last minute wills, one a ten-line document, she left the bulk of her millions to her husband, Charles Webb. These documents have al ready been filed for probate and will be bitterly fought by the dead woman's relatives.

Dr. Meyer today charged that Mrs. Webb was poisoned and that "there is already enough evidence to substantiate this charge."

Dr. W. J. Meyer.
In connection with the dead woman's ante-mortem statement. It came in this wise:

WEBB'S LETTERS

Dr. Meyer is said to have become suspicious of his patient's ailment because of what he considered its peculiar fluctuations. After treating up a pneumonic condition, he treated her for a kidney affection. The kidney trouble seemed to diminish, whereupon the heart acted badly. The heart became better and, in turn, the kidneys were again functioning poorly. The repetition of these fluctuations led Dr. Meyer to suspect something was wrong, it was said by a friend of his, these suspicions being accentuated when he learned that somebody had made bichloride of mercury preparations for Mrs. Webb.

It was in consequence of these suspicions, reported to have been arrived at also by the patient, that the supposed ante-mortem statement was made by Mrs. Webb.

That statement was said to have named the person who mixed the bichloride of mercury preparations for Mrs. Webb.

It was learned that Dr. Meyer and two women who were in the sickroom received from Mrs. Webb what she intended to be an ante-mortem statement in which she described the manner in which bichloride of mercury had been prepared. In the ante-mortem statement in which she expressed the fear that her condition was due to poisoning, Dr. Meyer's desire to testify again before the grand jury, which has adjourned until next week. His appearance is understood to be in connection with the dead woman's ante-mortem statement. It came in this wise:

Unmistakable Traces

Dr. Meyer made his statement after it was announced that Dr. Alexter it was announced that Dr. Gettler had completed his report on the strange death of the wealthy New York woman, intimating that he found traces of bichloride of mercury in the victim's viscera.

Dr. Gettler's complete report is expected to be in the hands of Coroner Edward F. Fitzgerald and District Attorney Arthur Rowland, of Westchester county, some time today.

Whether the Westchester officials would make the report public before submitting it to the grand jury next Monday could not be learned.

Dr. Gettler revealed that his qualitative tests showed unmistakable traces of bichloride of mercury poison. He would not say whether his qualitative tests showed sufficient mercury present to cause death.

"I have found mercury in the viscera of Mrs. Webb," he said, "I am now trying to determine whether or not the mercury exists in a lethal dose.

"From no one, either members of the family or any of the officials of Westchester County, have I heard that she ever took or used bichloride of mercury in any manner.

CORONER SPEAKS

"I have examined a package of tablets which were found in Mrs. Webb's sick room. I found that they contained nothing that would be harmful."

Coroner Fitzgerald said:

Charles Webb
International News Reel

Mrs. Gertie Webb
International News Reel

"So far we know only that there were traces of bichloride of mercury in Mrs. Webb's system. The reports thus far received do not show that it was sufficient to cause death or that the residue not eliminated was enough poison to cause death. There is nothing to show she did not use a bichloride of mercury preparation knowing it was poison. There is nothing to show that it she made excessively dangerous use of it the fault was due to anything but her own ignorance."

Dr. Gettler's report will be laid before the grand jury when it convenes again on Monday. He will be a witness.

Relatives and friends of Mrs. Webb, displeased at the conduct of the investigation into her death by the Westchester county officials, will appeal to Governor Smith to take the case out of the hands of District-Attorney Rowland—a procedure similar to that taken in the Ward case. Judge John F. McIntyre, counsellor and friend of Mrs. Webb during her entire life, said:

"None of the persons connected with this case, that is, among Mrs. Webb's friends, is satisfied with the attitude of the Westchester county authorities."

The case is approaching the proportion of a battle of written statements, the latest being an attack by Dr. William J. Meyer upon Charles Webb, the husband.

ASSAILS WEBB

"Mr. Webb's conduct during Mrs. Webb's last illness was so detrimental to the patient that I had to exclude him from the sickroom," said Dr. Meyer in his statement.

"Outside the room," he said, "Webb talked continually of wills and the estate until it became exceedingly disgusting to me."

Then, the physician said, when Webb was summoned to the death bed of his wife, he at first refused to go, saying, "We have been together ten years. One day lost does not matter."

Dr. Meyer criticised the action of the District Attorney of Westchester county, declaring that the attitude of the officials put him in a position in which his motives appeared to be not above suspicion. He declared, however, that his actions were aimed only at seeing justice done.

DIARY IS READ

The Westchester County Grand Jury read the diary of Mrs. Margaret C. Johnstone, chum of Mrs. Webb, made at the bedside of the dying woman and recording the odd and queer happenings and symptoms that have led to the present inquiry into Mrs. Webb's death.

District Attorney Rowland is holding that diary as evidence to be used in case the matter is brought to trial.

When she appeared before the grand jury, Mrs. Johnstone was modishly attired in dark brown velvet hat with mink trimmings, a gray duvetyn coat with silver fox collar, and a brown crepe dress. She wore gold circlet earrings, a turquoise full length necklace, a platinum wrist watch and several diamond rings.

She and Mrs. Webb were friends almost from infancy. It was in her arms that Mrs. Webb died.

RELATIVES CALLED

Dist. Atty. Rowland has issued subpoenas for Mr. and Mrs. William T. Hunter of Devon, Pa., uncle and aunt of the dead woman, but process servers have been unable to locate them. Subpoenas are also out for Dr. Francis Irwin and Dr. A. B. Eddy, both of New York, called into conference by Dr. Meyer shortly before Mrs. Webb died.

S. Jennings Gorman, of Bridgeport, Conn., father of Mrs. Webb, filed protest against the 20-line will made during Mrs. Webb's last illness, leaving everything to her husband, and charged "undue influence" and "lack of testamentary capacity," at the time the will was signed.

TEXT OF WILL

Mrs. Webb's famous deathbed will, one of the shortest ever executed to dispose of such wealth, was made public for the first time. It follows:

"I, Gertie Emily Gorman Webb, wife of Charles Webb, of the city of New York, hereby make this my last will and testament.

"First, I endorse and bequeath all my property and estate, both real and personal, including No. 226 Madison avenue, in the city of New York, and the sum of $50,000, both of which I now have power to dispose of under the will of my brother, to my husband, the said Charles Webb, in absolute ownership, knowing that he will carry out my wishes in regard to the use and disposition of my property.

"Second, I appoint my said husband and such trust company in the city of New York as he may select to be the executors of this will and I direct that no bond or other security be required of them or of either of them."

With a trace of mercury found in Mrs. Webb's body and toxicologists seeking to determine whether it was present in a deadly dose, read the Boston American tomorrow for latest developments in the case.

Recluse Dead by Gas, Canaries Also Perish

Fall River, Oct. 4.—Two policemen, who had been summoned to No. 22 Orange street by neighbors of Louis Huard, an elderly man, discovered his dead body stretched on the kitchen floor, fully clothed and a short distance from a gas range, the cocks of which were open.

The room was flooded with gas and two canaries were dead in their cage while a third bird was barely alive. Huard lived alone.

legally once, and illegally three times. She is now the wife of Melville Baker, an Amherst graduate, and son of Austin L. Baker, a member of the wholesale grocery firm of Eldridge Baker Company of Boston.

"I am fishing," said the much married Mrs. Walsh when Baker filed his suit. "As to Walsh, I can't say he was a particularly good catch. There are bigger fish to be caught."

According to Walsh, Olive Beach was married to John A. Christy, then an instructor in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in 1910. She was then fifteen years old, and had been graduated from Bird's Private Academy in Spring field, only a short time.

WEDS DESPITE DECREE.

A year later Christy secured a divorce on grounds of desertion. It was a decree nisi, but despite the court order that she might not remarry within six months, Olive was married to Melville Baker three days after the decree was granted.

They moved into a home in Medford, presented by the bridegroom's father. They lived together seven months.

In 1919, without an attempt to have her remarriage to Baker annulled or to get a divorce, Olive was married to Sherbourne Eaton, just out of Harvard, Walsh claims. Eaton was a stock broker. The couple lived in New York. Their marriage was annulled last December by the New York Supreme Court.

While she was still married to Eaton, Baker petitioned the Middlesex courts for an annullment, claiming that Olive had no r. ht to marry him because of the divorce court's decree forbidding her to remarry within six months. The petition was filed, but there is no record that it was ever granted. In March of this year, Mrs. Olive Beach Christy Baker Eaton took unto herself another husband—Walsh.

SEEKS BIG LOVE THRILL.

But there is another complication, according to Mrs. Walsh, who declares that after Baker filed his annulment petition, he married Miss Virginia Lawlor of Lowell. She says they are now living together.

"I've never really loved any of my four husbands," Mrs. Walsh commented when Walsh filed his annulment suit.

"I'm going to keep right on getting married, because I have to experience the big love thrill. I'm not exactly a college widow, but here is the lineup: Christy, Tech; Baker, Amherst; Eaton, Harvard; Walsh, Kindergarten. My last marriage was the worst. I must be slipping.

"I wish Walsh luck in his action," she declared when the action was filed. "That will straighten things out and then I shall be free to go fishing again."

him on the case is State Detective Richard Griffin of Haverhill.

Horsch has left Exeter Academy, where he was registered as a freshman.

"I wanted to go into business," he said. "I entered Exeter Academy to please my family. I tried it out, and last Thursday I resigned from the student body and returned home." He corroborated his sweetheart's statement to the police relative to the alleged illegal operation. He said he had kept company with Miss McLeod for two years.

WAS STAR ATHLETE.

Horsch was a "four letter" man on the Haverhill High School athletic team. He was captain of the football team and star quarterback for four years, and was a star member of the basketball, baseball and track teams. He was picked by a Philadelphia writer as the All-American high school quarterback last year.

Thwing is sixtytwo years old. According to the police, he served a winter's in the Charlestown State Penitentiary for an offence similar to the one for which he now faces trial. A charge for the same offence is now pending in the Essex County Court. The case was tried two years ago. The jury disagreed, but the case was not dismissed.

Miss McLeod is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McLeod, No. 381 Washington street, this city. She recently went to room at the home of Mrs. Donovan on How street. She bore an excellent reputation among her friends and acquaintances in Haverhill, and was popular with her fellow employes in a Haverhill shoe factory.

Horsch is represented by Attorney Richard McCormick of Boston and Haverhill as counsel. Thwing is represented by Attorney Michael L. Sullivan.

Men arrested on suspicion are Percy Dodge, 30 years old, of Mattapan. He was married last Saturday. His bride today did not know he was in a cell. Also Tom Powers, 33 years old, of Lechmere square, Cambridge.

They were arrested by Sergeant Barrick and Detective Flynn of the Boston & Maine police and Special Agents Boyle and McGiven of the American Express Company.

Robberies have covered a period of more than a year. Repeated investigations failed to unearth a clue as to the identity of the thieves. Cars were robbed within a few minutes after they reached the railroad yards.

In the case of American Express cars seals were broken and clothing and jewelry taken. Other thefts included various sorts of merchandise. Came a tip a day ago which led to a hurried investigation. to what had become of the money, Miss Fritz made vague references to taxi rides, clothes and a good deal of time. She is attractive and stylishly dressed, and twenty-two years old.

According to the police, Miss Fritz raised a check drawn on the Boylston National Bank from $132 to $332. She is also charged with forging five other checks during the two years she was employed by Solomon.

It was the check alleged to have been forged on September 1 that led to her arrest. The check fell into Solomon's hands, and becoming suspicious, the silk manufacturer called in auditors Monday. The auditors reported a shortage of from $25,000 to $35,000.

It was Miss Fritz's duty to handle the bank statements for the firm, and it was through handling these statements, according to the police, that she was able to cover up her check manipulations.

Paris, France
August Twenty-six

T one of the well known smaller de luxe hotels in Paris a group of charmingly gowned women were discussing the various famous Parisian gown establishments. Some wore model gowns of exquisite design and undoubtedly high cost. Suddenly one of them turned to me and said: "Your gown is so lovely I admire its dignity and quiet elegance. I'd ever so much like to have one just like it if you wouldn't mind—and as I am from California and you are from Boston it would not make an awkward duplication."

The frock was a georgette and lace combined, both "henna" color. The lines were rather straight and very long, with side panels touching the floor. I had paid $26.50 for it in the Filene Automatic Basement! You also had them in beige.

A week later when I had taken my permanent residence at the St. Pere—considered by Parisians as one of the "choicest" of the old Paris establishments, a beautifully gowned woman approached me as I sat at breakfast.

"Would you think me horribly rude," she asked, "if I were to inquire where you purchased your attractive sport suits? I noticed your white one yesterday, but this corn color one is positively irresistible, and I'd love to bring one home to my daughter."

The suits were very attractive ones which I had picked up in Filene's basement at the astonishing price of either $7.50 or $7.95, those lovely, soft, woolly knitted things that have caused so much favorable comment—that cleanse and wear beautifully and look like "sport suits" from an exclusive model shop.

You may imagine the amazement of this lady when I told her very frankly the story of my purchase. She promptly made up her mind to stop off at Filene's Basement on her way home from France to Chicago.

Divorce and Cancer

FOR SEVEN MARRIAGES in the United States there is one divorce. For seven persons of middle age one is sure to die of cancer.

Some call the divorce cancer worse than any other malignant tumor.

If we understood cancer and divorce, we might find them not so far apart.

Both come from ignorance; both could be prevented.

THE VOTERS of Oklahoma seem to have decided against Governor Walton, in favor of the Ku Klux Klan, by an overwhelming majority. Governor Walton secures an injunction to prevent an election that would impeach and put him out.

If it be true that the Ku Klux completely control a great State, that interests all other States. It may be that Oklahoma voted not so much in favor of the Ku Klux as against Governor Walton's use of militia to prevent voting.

WURTEMBURG and Bavaria negotiate for joint action against Berlin, planning, through secession, to divide the German Empire, cutting off the Catholic South from the Protestant North.

North Germany will fight secession as our Northern States did. But German secession, the plan of Marshal Foch, will have the French army back of it. Not easy to resist that.

WITH WURTEMBURG and Bavaria transferring their resources, and above all their racial fertility on the side of France, any change in Europe's balance of power might be postponed.

But there is Russia with her 120 millions of population. Nothing positive can be said about Europe except it's lucky we stayed out.

A BURGLAR who tried to steal four deadly cobras from the Zoological Garden failed by accident. He has no better reason to congratulate himself on his failure than has Uncle Sam to congratulate himself on failure to break into the League of Nations, and pull out the Armenian mandate. It would sting worse than any snake.

THE WIND bloweth where it listeth, but the French scientists mean to keep track of it. They are carefully photographing various winds, including the wild West wind. It sounds impossible, and is quite simple.

A flying man going 200 kilometers an hour pours out a smoke trail. Then the smoke, whirled and curved by a wind blowing at six meters a second, is easily photographed.

THINKING CANNOT be taught, exactly. But it can be stimulated. When the apple fell, that started important thought in Newton. When Columbus made the egg stand up, that probably made the spectators think for a few seconds.

But how can you teach or provoke PROLONGED concentrated thinking? Select your subject, matter unlimited in infinite space, or time without beginning or end, or the logical probability of personal immortality. The average mind will find it hard to stick to one thought for three minutes.

HARVARD WILL TEACH freshmen to think. Perhaps it can be done. But it recalls the old saying about leading a horse to water.

I write, not that you may read, but that you may think. Montesquieu put that in his Spirit of Laws long ago. Socrates showed where true thinking begins when he said he supposed he was called the wisest of the Greeks because he knew that he knew nothing.

A CHEERFUL day in the stock market yesterday, even a little cheerful for the farmers: Wheat struggled up three cents a bushel. Cotton had a moment of discouragement, but the lowest point was higher than any conservative would have hoped, so early in the year.

Cotton should settle down,

HACKED ARTIST WHO LOOKED AT MODELS

MR. AND MRS RUDOLPH SUDEN

THRONG CHEERS 'MAN-WOMAN' IS FREED

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Acquitted of having, as a smiling girl bandit, shot and killed Richard C. Teamer, wealthy insurance broker, in a holdup last Summer, Fred G. Thompson received feminine banishment that for fourteen years permitted him to go unchallenged as a woman and eleven years ago to marry Frank Carrick.

Feminine throughout the trial in his actions, gestures and remarks, despite the rough male garb of the jail prisoner, Thompson, womanlike, shrank towards his attorney as the jury foreman pronounced the words of acquittal.

He immediately recovered and the temperament of the old days as a cabaret entertainer asserted itself as Thompson swung up on a table and requested nobody to go until he had thanked everybody. Cheers and cries of approval of the verdict were shrieked as men and women crushed about the "man-woman" to congratulate him.

The feminine instinct predominant, Thompson exclaimed "My goodness, I'll be glad to get some hairpins," as he was being led back to jail to be discharged. "Every time a woman has visited the jail I've said, 'Please, madam, have you a hairpin to spare.'"

THREATS MADE ON GOVERNOR'S LIFE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 4.—Threats of assassination of Governor J. C. Walton, implacable foe of the Ku Klux Klan, have caused extra guards to be placed about the executive mansion and caused extra precautions to be taken in investigating strangers and the purpose of their request for audience with the Chief Executive.

Governor Walton made known himself that his life has been threatened.

"The Ku Klux Klan guns of the national are now trained on me and I am daily in receipt of threats of assassination," he told newspaper correspondents.

"But I had rather die by the hand of an assassin than die the death of a coward. The war on the invisible Empire goes on. There will be no quarter asked or given."

Election returns show that the Initiative petition No. 73 has won by about 4 to 1.

DISABLED VETS TO BE PAID PROMPTLY

Washington, Oct. 4.—Decentralization of the system of payments to disabled veterans of the World War has been decided upon by Director Hines of the Veterans' Bureau, in order to obviate delays in settling monthly compensation claims. After November 1, veterans will be paid directly from their district offices.

JEALOUS WIFE USES HATCHET ON HUSBAND

CORINNE RICH
By Universal Service.

New York, Oct. 4.—Little Susanne Suden of Greenwich Village has more trouble than anybody. Now she's in jail because she can't raise the $1,000 that will bail her out.

It's all because Susanne has temperament—French temperament, and the artistic whims of her painter husband, Rudolph Suden, a contributing cause. It's an international affair.

This time Rudolph refused to give her money and she hacked him in the shoulder or somewhere with a hatchet. It occurred on Fifth avenue at a populous corner and brought the police.

ONCE TOOK POISON.

Susanne's matrimonial complications were brought to light for the first time about two months ago. But there's no telling how long they have been going on.

She took poison because she was jealous of the pretty girls who frequented the studio as models.

"We were so happy," she said, while recovering from the suicidal effort. "We loved each other, oh, so much. But Rudolph looked at the models and I didn't like that."

At that time Rudolph was all anxiety. He loved no one but Susanne, he insisted. So he took her away from the hospital to his colorful studio and let by-gones be by-gones.

KISSED AND MADE UP.

"We kissed and made up, but it didn't last but five days," the girl said today, great tears streaming from her dark eyes.

ATTACKS HIM.

Quite by accident, she met Rudolph on the street. He was cold—very cold. He even turned away when Susanne suggested dollars.

Then she struck him with the hatchet concealed under her coat.

"I just couldn't help it," she said. "I had to eat. And to think I taught him all the art he knows!"

Susanne has more trouble than anybody.

MEN WITH WEDDING LIQUOR ARE FINED

Saco, Me., Oct. 4.—Albert Blanchett and John J. Marcone of Marlboro, Mass., who came to attend an October wedding and were arrested by the local police after search of the dress suit cases of the party, had disclosed several quarts of liquor, were arraigned in the Police Court before Judge Frank Chesley, charged with intoxication, and paid fines of $10 and costs.

MRS. STOKES' CHARGES HEARD

Dry Chiefs Score Judge Harris

SHAKE UP ORDERED IN OFFICE

U. S. District Attorney's Force Flayed as Lax; Alleged Seized Liquors Stolen

Official decapitation of at least one assistant to United States District Attorney Harris of Massachusetts has been demanded and a general shakeup in the Boston office is expected as a result of a visit by Judge Harris to Washington, which was ordered by the "higher-ups."

Conditions in the Boston office have been described in Washington as the "loosest in the country." Department of Justice members are credited with declaring that unless immediate improvement is noted an Assistant Attorney-General would be sent to Boston to take charge.

High official of the department is authority for the statement that the attention of Judge Harris has been called repeatedly to unsatisfactory conditions in his office, but that he has done little to correct conditions.

It was made known, however, that he had asked the department to request the resignation of one of his assistants who had charge of prosecuting liquor law violators.

Instead of clearing the situation, the action by Judge Harris is regarded as having complicated the case. Broad hints are being broadcasted

Atty.-Gen. Daugherty

Judge Harris

that something more has to be done including the riddance of alleged sloth in the local office and the more careful preparation of cases against liquor violators.

However much the Department of Justice would like to get rid of Judge Harris, it finds its hands tied District attorneys are appointed by the President. He alone can remove them.

Then, too, Judge Harris has the unqualified indorsement of Senator Lodge, at whose request he was named by President Harding. Recently when the Anti-Saloon League appealed to Senator Lodge to aid in the enforcement of the prohibition law and criticized Judge Harris' conduct of the office of district attorney, Mr. Lodge came back with a strong defence of his appointee.

Federal representatives here were perturbed today by the news that a thorough sifting and shakeup was due here shortly. Assistant District Attorneys White and Aiken are Judge Harris' prohibition aids. Speculation was rife as to which of these two had been slated for removal by the Boston chief prosecutor.

Among the complaints made against Judge Harris' conduct of his office are that evidence has been missing when cases have been called and that seized liquor has been stolen because of neglect in guarding it.

It is charged that a clique of Boston lawyers have the call on business of the district attorney's office and that Assistant District Attorney Carroll appears to be the office boss. The Department of Justice is known to have been regarding the local office with disfavor for some time, and renewed activity was caused by recent newspaper attacks of the Anti-Saloon League.

ATTACKED BY THE DRYS.

Commissioner Hayes, as well as Judge Harris, was a subject of these recent attacks. The commissioner has been a thorn in the side of the drys for a long period.

Over Hayes, it is pointed out, the Department of Justice has no control. He is appointed by the court.

If complaints are made against a United States Commissioner, a representative of the Department of Justice investigates and transmits a report to the judge or judges who have the appointing power.

Whether the department plans to investigate Commissioner Hayes of Boston could not be learned at the department today, but it was said that a change in that office would be pleasing to the drys and the department.

MRS. STOKES BARES HER CHARGES

Goes Before Grand Jury in Chicago and Outlines Her Story of Alleged Plot

Chicago, Oct. 4.—So that she may proceed to New York, where the hearing in her husband's suit for divorce has been postponed until Monday, Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes was taken before the Grand Jury today to tell what she knows concerning her charge that her husband conspired to defame her character and to use false evidence in the divorce suit.

A telegram received by Supreme Court Justice Mahoney in New York from Chief Justice Caverly of the Cook County, Ill., Criminal Courts, influenced him to grant an adjournment of trial of the suit.

Six hours before the Chicago jurist telegraphed Justice Mahoney the latter peremptorily had ordered the trial to begin, although Samuel Untermyer, Mrs. Stokes' counsel, said it would be impossible for her to be there because she was under subpena by the Cook County Grand Jury, and a refusal to adjourn would compel him to withdraw as her counsel.

Judicial comity, said Justice Mahoney, influenced him to grant the adjournment.

At the request of counsel for both sides, Justice Mahoney ordered more than 100 witnesses in the courtroom to remain until they could be subpenaed to appear on the opening day of the trial and told them to report to him immediately if they were approached by any one interested in their testimony.

Preceding the adjournment spectators listened to clashes between Mr. Untermyer and Max D. Steuer, counsel for Stokes.

"I have been made a perfect fool of in this case," declared Mr. Steuer. "During June, the busiest month of the year for a lawyer, I sat in my office without trying a single case because, to be ready to go to trial, I returned a number of retainers."

"The tactics of the other side," concluded Mr. Steuer, "are destroying any possibility of my client getting justice."

Dog Fight Fails To Jar Coolidge During Speech

Washington, Oct. 4.—President Coolidge was in the midst of his address to members of the American Dairy Congress at the White House, when his fox terrier set up a yelping that almost drowned out his master's voice.

Secret service agents and the keeper of the hounds rushed to the kennel under the south portico, from which the President was speaking, to silence the obstreperous pup.

Investigation revealed that Peter Pan and Laddie Buck, the White House Airedale, were mixing it up in lively fashion.

The President kept on with his speech, unperturbed by the excitement.

BESIEGED CONVICTS HOLD OFF A SMALL ARMY

Eddyville, Ky., Oct. 4.—Hemmed in by the walls of the Kentucky State Penitentiary, three convict murderers, who killed one guard and wounded three others, one probably fatally, in an attempt to shoot their way to freedom, today were barricaded in a two-story brick dining building, central structure of the prison plant.

The convicts apparently were conserving the ammunition for their automatic pistols—and waiting.

Stationed at vantage points about the barricaded building were prison guards, members of Troop C, from the National Guard Machine Gun Company at Hopkinsville, and citizen marksmen from the neighboring countryside.

GAS BOMBS USELESS.

Prison authorities and National Guard officers were expected to initiate today an active attempt to dislodge the besieged convicts, Monte Wilkes of Louisville, Lawrence Griffin of Mayfield, and Harry Feland, committed from Newport.

Tear gas guns brought by the tear gas squad of the Louisville police department were found ineffective, inasmuch as their users would be exposed to the fire of the besieged men on account of the isolated site of the mess hall.

Victims of the convicts' desperate bid for freedom were: Hodge Cunningham, shot dead; V. B. Mattingly, probably fatally wounded; W. M. Gilbert, whose condition is reported critical, and W. P. Gillipan. Gilbert and Gillipan were sent to a hospital in Paducah.

A bullet ripped through Mattingly's body and dropped him in a spot exposed to the fire of the hidden convicts. He begged for water and for medical attention for his wound, but prison authorities refused to permit his fellow guards to risk their lives in an attempt to move the wounded man to safety.

Finally, A. C. Warner, a life-term convict from Paducah, went to Mattingly, gave him water and later carried him to a shed. From the shed, with the aid of other prisoners, Warner moved the wounded guard to the prison hospital.

10,000 Pound Bombs May Be Dropped From Plane

St. Louis, Oct. 4.—Future wars may be ended through demoralization of the civilian population of huge cities by dropping 10,000 pound bombs from craft four times as big as the Barling bomber, Walter Henry Barling, designer of the bomber, told newspapermen here.

He was prepared to risk his reputation, he said, on the successful designing and flying of an airplane four times as big as the Baring bomber, the largest heavier than air craft in the world.

The Barling's wing spread is 120 feet. It is seventy feet long and 27 feet high.

MILLINERY DEPARTMENT
ON THURSDAY, FRIDAY and SATURDAY
10:30 to 1 — 2 to 4:30

If you wish to see the piquant charm of the newest fall hats, we cordially invite you to our millinery department Thursday, Friday or Saturday. Miss Boston is lovely enough to make any hat attractive, but wearing our new millinery she is what the school boys and girls would call "a riot."

Miss Boston is, incidentally, as gracious and lovable as she is unusually beautiful. She stands ready to assist you in any way she can, and only hopes you will call on her for help.

While Miss Boston is at Butler's she will model hats from a range so wide and attractive as to surprise you. There are all the newest of materials, shades and models—many of which are painstaking and clever reproductions of exclusive French hats. And the most surprising fact of all is that the prices are very reasonable—many stunning creations being as low as $3.98—and none above $15.

FORMER POLITICAL BOSS IS PARDONED

Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—William S. His daughter, Mrs. Adele [illegible] Higgins, whose efforts obtained the remission of his sentence, came for him.

Andover, Oct. 4.—Ashoor Kachadonian, forty-nine years old, of Greenwood road, was taken into custody by Chief of Police Frank M. The action is the result of the vote to accept terms proposed by Secretary of Labor Davis, and closes a strike called on July 1, 1922.

MASTER THIEF WORKING IN LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Oct. 4.—A master burglar has the Lawrence police working night and day in special squads trying to effect his capture. His activities, not unlike those of Lone Wolf, who robbed stores and homes under the very eyes of the police four years ago, are alarming the northern section of Lawrence. Sergeants Reardon and Gurry have been assigned to direct two separate auto squads of police.

The thief selected the vicinity of Belmont street, where there is no regular police officer.

Peter Carr, Commissioner of Public Safety, will make an immediate move to increase the night police.

DETECTIVES SEEK KIDNAPPED YOUTH

Private detectives have joined in the search, which has now become country-wide, for William J. Marshall, Jr., four years old, believed to have been kidnaped by his father at Camp Helena, Silver Lake, Wilmington, while the boy's mother, a singer, was away in New York.

DRUG-CRAZED MAN BEATS WIFE WITH HAMMER

While his two sons looked on and screamed for help, Felix Petkiewicz, of No. 72½ Green street, West End, locked his wife in a small bedroom and then beat her into unconsciousness with a hammer.

His wife, Sophia, says drugs and moonshine are to blame.

Felix is locked up at the Joy street police station charged with assault on his wife. Sophia lies swathed in bandages in a bed in her squalid little flat—wondering if another child, expected next month, was killed in the terrible experience. Physicians say they will know in a few days.

"I was sewing when my husband rushed into the room," said Sophia as she lay in her bed in the little flat. He came in and swore at me. He locked the door, and picking up a hammer, started for me. I tried to get away, but the door was locked. He hit me in the back. He hit me on the head. He hit me everywhere. Oh, it was terrible.

"He has been taking drugs for some time and has been drinking moonshine, too. Today he took both. He threatened me often. I never thought he would do it, but he did. Before this the older children have been here and he has not dared do it. I only pray that my baby, which I expect next month, is not killed."

Petkiewicz ran out of the room and was shot in the stairway by Traffic Officer Emerald Emery who was combing the alleys for the escapes of the children. Emery grappled with the enraged man and took him to the Joy street station where he was locked up.

TRAYES SEIZED ON CHARGE OF SWINDLING

A bombshell was exploded at the hearing in the case of Mrs. Mary J. Card, eighty-one-year-old Mansfield widow, who is attempting to recover nearly $400,000 alleged to have been taken from her by conspirators, when Asa Trayes, one of the defendants in the suit was arrested on a charge of having defrauded a Syracuse woman of $5,000 eighteen years ago.

The hearing was being held before Attorney Thomas Wiles, master, at No. 155 Devonshire street, when Police Inspector Eing entered and placed Trayes under arrest as a fugitive from justice. Trayes was then taken to Central Court and held in $5,000 after arraignment before Judge Lourie.

Trayes is charged with being the same man, who, as "Ross Edwards," a Syracuse clairvoyant, disappeared after he had been entrusted with

Mr. Asa Trayes Mrs. Asa Trayes

$5,000 by Mrs. Carrie Merriam to invest in steel stocks. Trayes denies he is the man.

The other three persons, who, with Trayes, are being heard on Mrs. Card's bill charging that she was swindled out of her fortune, are Mrs. Helen Trayes, his wife; Howard F. Butler, and Clarence Barnes, former Yale athlete.

Although Trayes denies he and "Ross Edwards," the Syracuse clairvoyant, are one and the same, the authorities are convinced from "wanted" circulars and other information that they have the right man.

MISSING HUSBAND TOOK AWAY PHOTOS

Mrs. Mary Walsh, of No. 99 Mercer street, South Boston, has asked the police to help her find her husband Patrick, who disappeared four weeks ago and has not been seen or heard from since.

"I have struggled for these four weeks without asking help in finding my husband but my means are about exhausted and I have a small child to take care of," sobbed Mrs. Walsh when interviewed at her home.

"My rent is overdue and I am unable to secure employment. I don't know why he left home as we hardly ever quarreled. He left home with all his photographs so that I could not use them in the newspapers."

TRAIN VICTIM IS WATERTOWN MAN

Edward J. Callahan, 48 years old, Watertown, was identified as the man who was struck by the Western Massachusetts newspaper train at the Mt. Auburn station of the Boston and Maine railroad, early Sunday morning.

Callahan fell asleep near the tracks. He has been unconscious since the accident. Cambridge City Hospital officials say that he has little chance to recover.

firmly, well above 30 cents, which would be a blessing for the South and the whole country.

Steel is suffering. Any European country can make and sell it cheaper than we can. That stifles exports. The war made all Europe specialize in steel production. This country will have to protect the United States producer adequately against foreign competition or risk dangerous injury to an industry as important to this nation as your skeleton to your body.

THE ENGLISH branch of the Andrew Carnegie Trust will distribute books, instead of merely giving away libraries with empty shelves. The Carnegie Fund in America should imitate that, if it can do it legally.

Carnegie set a good example. But giving empty libraries to a nation in need of good reading is like giving empty plates to the starving. This writer urged Mr. Carnegie to make M. W. Haseltine, most able critic, head of a Carnegie book distributing department.

Nothing happened and both are dead. Perhaps they are talking it over at this minute in a place where books are supposed not to exist. But it would be difficult to imagine a real Heaven without a book in it, or without scientific laboratories, for that matter. In my father's house are many mansions. Some, probably, offer opportunities for study and progress to those that dread readymade perfection.

FOOD QUERY DEPARTMENT

YOUR FOOD PURCHASING DIFFICULTIES SOLVED

A THURSDAY FEATURE

Are you at a loss as to where you can secure some particular brand or kind of foodstuffs? If so, write the Boston American Food Query Editor. We will answer your inquiry in these columns as quickly as possible.

Food Query Editor:

I am very fussy about the olive oil I use and particularly fond of a French oil. I am just running out of the stock I had on hand. A friend of mine secured it for me in New York City. It is known as "Lalance Brand," and it comes put up in gallon tins. I wonder if it is possible to buy same. Thanking you in advance. MRS. P. Q. R. Cambridge, Mass.

You can secure Lalance brand of French olive oil put up in gallon cans at Strong, Moreton & Co., No. 30-A North Street, or John Gilbert, Jr. Company.

Food Query Editor:

Have you ever heard of the boneless codfish by the name of Novacod brand? It comes put up in a one-pound wooden box. It is really a lovely piece of fish, always white and delicious. MRS. J. M. N., Newton, Mass.

You can buy the Novacod brand codfish, put up in one pound net weight wooden boxes in any of the Arthur E. Dorr stores. We understand these people handle practically the entire output of this brand of codfish in this territory.

Food Query Editor:

I have heard of late about a sweetened Southern style cocoanut, put up in tins. As I understand it, this cocoanut is moist, but there is no water or milk used in the preparation. I may have this thing all wrong, but if you know of a product anything like I have mentioned and can tell me where I can buy it, will be greatly obliged. MRS. P. B. W., Dorchester, Mass.

The Franklin Baker Co. of Philadelphia have just started putting out a new can of Southern style sweetened moist cocoanut, very fine shredded. Have just opened a can of the above product and have no hesitancy in pronouncing same a very delicious, high-grade article. You can secure this product at any of the following chain stores: John T. Connor Company, Ginter Grocery Company, E. E. Gray, Atlantic & Pacific, M. O'Keefe and the Economy stores.

Food Query Editor:

Please tell me through your valuable column if I can secure Sunbeam Mayonnaise in Boston? MRS. M. D., Roxbury, Mass.

You can purchase Sunbeam brand mayonnaise put up by the Austin, Nichols & Co., Inc., New York, at any of the Mohican stores.

Food Query Editor:

Have you ever heard of Tao Tea? I have purchased it in New York, but can not find a store here that handles the above. For your information would say that this tea comes put up in a gauze bag or tea ball and is packed in a very handsomely-decorated tin. The tea itself is not alone very delicious, but the way it is put up makes it a very economical way to purchase this product. Any information you can give me as to where it can be purchased here in Boston will be greatly appreciated. MRS. N. O. T., Back Bay, Boston.

We have tried to locate a store in Greater Boston that handles Tao Tea, but find out that these people have not canvassed this market as yet, but expect to very shortly. You can, however, write to the Tao Tea, Inc., 103 Park Ave., New York, and they no doubt will inform you as to the best way of securing your wants.

Food Query Editor:

Would you kindly inform me if a brand of coffee known as Autocrat made by "Brownell & Fields Co." of Providence can be obtained in the City of Boston. E. W., Boston, Mass.

We will publish below Brownell & Field's letter which will give you the information desired: "We have your letter of October 1st requesting information as to the distribution of AUTOCRAT COFFEE in Boston and in reply would say that it is handled in a limited way by Silas Peirce & Co. and Eldridge-Baker Co. Unfortunately, we have not yet introduced this brand in the immediate vicinity of Boston in a very large way, although it is sold extensively in many of the nearby cities and towns. However, probably either of the above named firms could refer you to some convenient retail store where AUTOCRAT COFFEE is sold."

DRIVER THREATENED AS AUTO KILLS BOY

Police prevented a crowd of more than two hundred people from mobbing William F. Cutront of No. 138 Harvard street, Cambridge, after his truck had run down and killed John Williams of No. 90 Tremont street, Cambridge.

The accident occurred on Cambridge street, Cambridge, in the sight of the boy's father, Ernest Williams, and another brother.

COPS BAN BOOK PASSED AS 'FIT TO BE SOLD'

The Boston police, playing a censor's role, stopped the sale of "Impromptu," a novel by Eliot Paul of Beacon Hill's "Bohemia," which was passed as "fit to be sold" by both Watch and Ward Society and the committee of Boston booksellers.

Whatever the opinion of these moral-guiding bodies in regard to the book the police term is "indecent." For selling it, Helen V. Brooks, a Back Bay book seller, was arrested on a warrant by Sergeant French of Station 16. She lives at No. 4349 Washington street, Roslindale.

The interesting situation has been created of alignment on one side in what promises to be a bitter legal fight of Paul, the author of "Impromptu," the Watch and Ward and the Boston booksellers. The lone antagonist is the Boston police. When the case comes to the courts, as it is scheduled to do November 6, it will take shape in the nature of a test case.

CHICAGO JURY HEARS MRS. STOKES

Chicago, Oct. 4.—So that she may proceed to New York, where the hearing in her husband's suit for divorce has been postponed until Monday, Mrs. W. E. D. Stokes was taken before the grand jury today to tell what she knows concerning her charge that her husband conspired to defame her character and to use false evidence in the divorce suit.

Seeks Divorce in Paris

Paris, Oct. 2.—Alberta Burton, American actress, is among the latest Americans to apply for a divorce here. Efforts of the French courts to arrange a conciliation have been without results. Her husband, Mr. Meyer, is registered at Claridge's Hotel, while she is at the Hotel Lotti.

NEWLY WED DOCTOR BECOMES PATIENT

Dr. Thomas D. Christian, Jr., of Boston City Hospital, married Miss Marjorie Downes of Haverhill, daughter of the late Larad H. Downes, shoe magnate, Tuesday afternoon, and when he reported for duty at City Hospital was taken ill and placed under observation for diphtheria.

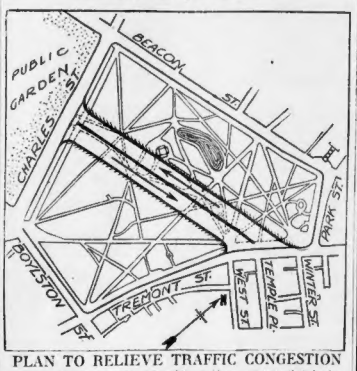
COMMON BOULEVARD IS SUGGESTED



PLAN TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC CONGESTION

Boston American student of traffic problems proposes that boulevard be cut through Common from Tremont street to Charles street. The road would be designed to carry two parallel lines of automobiles either direction.

THREE MEDFORD POLS FACING INDICTMENT

Thre indictments, charging three former Medford city officials with bribery, are expected to be returned by the Middlesex County Grand Jury, before the present sitting of that body is over.

Judge Sisk dismissed them for the remainder of the week and ordered them to report for duty again on Monday morning. When the jury has completed its work on Monday, there is no doubt but what three prominent dethroned politicians of Medford, will be indicted.

The investigation comes as a result of the large expenditures of the City of Medford's money on buildings in that city. The two buildings now under fire in the investigation are the Fulton Heights Grammar School, which cost the city more than $125,000; the other is for the City Hall, which was intended to be the City Hall.

The City Hall was started more than four years ago and nothing has been done on it since that time. The site of the proposed building is in the centre of Medford square and has been the joke of the city for seven years.

DENIES GUILT IN METHUEN ROBBERY

Lawrence, Oct. 4.—Frank Bonello of this city entered a plea of guilty to two indictments charging him with robbery and conspiracy to commit robbery, when he appeared before Essex County Criminal Court.

Bonfiglio and two others are alleged to have robbed a Haverhill man in Methuen several weeks ago.

STREET ACROSS COMMON IS PROPOSED

Traffic Suggestion No. 8

The American prints today still another suggestion for simplifying the traffic problem in Boston. The correspondent proposes that a road be cut through the center of the Common from Tremont to Charles street.

The proposal is to construct a highway wide enough to accommodate passing of four automobiles at a time, two going in the direction of Tremont street and two toward Charles street. The Tremont street entrance to the thoroughfare would be near Winter and West streets.

The author of the idea says the proposed street would relieve traffic in Boylston, Beacon and Tremont streets. He would have it a bridged road of ornamental design giving a Venetian garden effect. He would close it to vehicular traffic on Sundays, but leave it open to pedestrians.

WILD CAT BREAKS IN AND ATTACKS GUIDE

Suffern, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Samuel Ryerson, a 73-year-old negro guide, living in an old hut on Cranberry Mountain, was awakened by growling and snarling at his window. He saw a wildcat glaring at him and reached for his shotgun, but the wildcat had broken through the window and leaped on him. Most of Ryerson's clothing was torn from his body and he received several deep scratches on his hands and face. The wildcat then gave up the fight and escaped to the woods.

TOWN JAILER WEEPS WHEN HIS 14 MODEL PRISONERS LEAVE

PURSE IS TAKEN UP FOR HIM

Connecticut Summer Colonists Served Time for Breaking Dry Laws

By Universal Service

Brooklyn, Conn., Oct. 3.—A jailer seldom weeps when his prisoners bid him good bye after doing their time, but Charlie Parker, who guards this town's bastille, had tears in his eyes when fourteen men and women prisoners, charged with violating the local dry laws, went back to their limousines after serving fifteen days as Charlie's guests.

The departing convicts, members of the Summer colonies near here, took up a collection of $25 for Charlie and bought a case of salmon for the jail cat in appreciation of the kindness they received while here.

They were allowed to have their meals sent in from the best cafeteria in town, and were served by the jail waiters. Members of the local W. C. T. U. heard about it and protested to the jailer about treating his prisoners too kindly, but he pointed out that there was never a breath of scandal or rum in the jail.

He said the fourteen were model prisoners, and "ladies and gentlemen," whose acquaintance he was glad to make in spite of their criminal record.

MAN-WOMAN FREED ON MURDER CHARGE

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Frederick R. Thompson, who admitted being the husband of one woman while he lived as the wife of another man, was found not guilty of the murder of Richard C. Tesmer, shot in a holdup.

CHRISTIE WILL FIGHT TO KEEP HIS BRIDE

Haverhill, Oct. 4.—George J. Christie, Merrimac road house proprietor, former actor and Federal prohibition agent, who is to be arrested on the charge of abducting petite Lena Ollis when he and Lena, now his bride, arrive here from Savannah, Ga., today, will fight any attempt of the authorities to separate him from his wife.

Christie contends that his marriage to Miss Ollis is legal and has wired Attorney Frederick H. Magison from Washington, instructing him to represent him in court. Attorney Magison declares the marriage is legal. The State police say no.

'BOSTON DAY' AT BROCKTON FAIR DRAWS THRONG

Brockton, Oct. 4.—This was "Boston Day" at the big Brockton Fair and another immense crowd was in attendance. The weather holds ideal.

Major interest is still focused on the horse show.

The class for Massachusetts hunters and jumpers was won by L. A. Dowd's "The Whale," with second and third prizes going to "Tophorne" and "Honeysuckle," both owned by E. C. Whiting.

Prize for the best saddle horse was awarded to "Bohemian Actress," owned by John P. Croser, after judges had carefully examined twenty-one entrants.

"Prince Peterboro," owned by O. W. Lehmann, won a blue ribbon in the novice horse class, with E. C. Whiting's "Beaton Easter," coming in second.

One of the prettiest exhibitions was the contest for Shetland ponies driven by children under fourteen years. "Sassy Susie," owned by M. F. Murphy, came in for first honors.

First class in the pony novice class was won by "Hamilton Fashion Stepper," owned by Dilwyne Farm, with "Lady Nipper" from the Maple Hill Farm coming in for second honors.

In the novice saddle horse class, three gaits, walk, trot and canter, the blue ribbon went to Robert E. Moreland's "Going Up."

The throng was thrilled by the daredevil aviation stunts of Sparks and Fogg, who amused themselves by flying low over the fair, engaging in all kinds of perilous stunts.

KILLED ON HER WAY HOME FROM CEMETERY

Springfield, Vt., Oct. 4.—Mrs. William S. Armstrong, 65, was fatally injured while walking from the Oakland cemetery, where she had been visiting a grave to this village, when she was struck by a town-owned light delivery truck driven by Walter Pinkey.

PROBE OF LYNN EXPLOSION IS ORDERED

The efforts of Foreman Richard Barry of the municipal rock crushing plant on Clark street, Lynn, and his assistant, William McRae, to remove several sticks of dynamite embedded in a ledge, which imperilled the lives of thirty fellow workmen, resulted in an explosion killing the two men.

Mayor McPhetres of Lynn, one of the first to arrive at the quarry after the explosion, ordered City Solicitor Shannahan to conduct an immediate investigation of the explosion.

Calls were sent for physicians and ambulances. Five men were found to be injured.

The dynamite sticks causing the explosion were part of an old charge placed in the rock near the center of the quarry three months ago, and which at that time failed to explode.

Barry was in the employ of the city eight years in the capacity of foreman of the stone-crushing plant. He is married and leaves a wife, Elinor, and a son and daughter. He was considered an expert in explosives and blasting.

Winter-fylleth

October was known to the Anglo-Saxons as Winter-fylleth, because this full moon (fylleth) was supposed to mark the beginning of winter.

With Bostonians, October may be said to mark the beginning of the winter social season. Homes are set in order in anticipation of gayeties to come. Christmas lists are begun, and Christmas presents are purchased from time to time.

We have been planning for October for some time. We have new patterns of table silver to interest the friends of the fall brides. Stationery and handbags from London have arrived.

For bridge prizes you may choose some of the glass or china just received. Our linen-finished English playing cards are attractive in appearance and price.

On the third floor some fine antiques have been added to our collection. Some of the gold jewelry will suggest a very special Christmas gift.

REDS IN A. F. OF L. WANT SOVIET RUSSIA RECOGNIZED BY U. S.

LABOR DAY ON MAY 1 URGED

Radicals Seek to Emphasize Unity of Interests With European Workers

Portland, Ore., Oct. 3.—The Red issue has been thrown into the A. F. of L. convention with a bang. Resolutions now include the following issues:

1—Establishment of trade relations with and recognition of the Soviets.

2—The Koster scheme for so-called amalgamation of trade unions into industrial unions.

3—The separate political party scheme backed generally by the Reds.

4—To celebrate May 1, the European revolutionary holiday, instead of the first Monday in September, as Labor Day.

ORDERS FROM MOSCOW.

There is only one resolution on Russia, but on political party action and on so-called amalgamation there are several.

Orders for the destruction of the American Federation of Labor have been repeatedly issued to American Communists from Moscow as the first step in overthrowing the American Government and American democracy.

The Reds were characterized by President Gompers in an address during the day as "serpents trying to sting us in the heart." But, he added, "we will know, and I think we do know, how to deal with them."

THIRD PARTY TO CONTINUE.

Regardless of the action taken on four of the ninety-five resolutions introduced in the convention calling for the adoption of "independent political action for workers," the farmer-labor party will continue to function, as stated by J. F. Emme, delegate from the St. Paul (Minn.) trades and labor assembly and author of the Minnesota resolution, asking the national labor body to change its constitution so that it can adopt the third political party policy.

Mr. Emme said that the farmer-labor movement has the backing of labor in many states besides Minnesota and Illinois, where the party has shown the greatest strength.

W. C. Robinson, a fraternal delegate from England, who is a member of Parliament from Yorkshire, and a Labor Union official for fifteen years, said that the British Labor party has 144 votes in the House of Commons out of a total of 607, polling at the last election 4,235,457 votes to 5,353,811 for the Conservatives.

CURRENCY HEAD WARNS ABOUT BRANCH BANKS

By WINDER R. HARRIS

Washington, Oct. 4.—Announcing a formal ruling by Attorney-General Daugherty that national banks can not engage in general branch banking, Comptroller of the Currency Henry M. Dawes served this warning on the Joint Congressional Banking Commission today:

"That the development of (State) branch banking, unless curbed, will result in the elimination of the national banking system and thereby ultimately destroy the federal reserve system, and substitute therefor privately controlled reserve systems of branch banks."

The comptroller emphasized that the branch banking question has passed the stage for "academic discussion," and now presents "the outstanding problem in our banking system today." He said it is "distinctly a practical and not a theoretical issue."

FIGHTS MARK TWO BOSTON RUM RAIDS

Three successful raids in South Boston and the South End were made and more than $500 worth of liquor seized by Special Officers Garrett, Higgins and Laidlaw of the liquor squad from police headquarters. Laidlaw was badly cut with broken glass about the hands and arms in a South Boston raid.

The apartment of Frank Wolanoscy, No. 62 Silver street, South Boston, was the first raided. Several men offered resistance when the officers entered and showed their search warrant. They were subdued.

Laidlaw received cuts about the hands when he thwarted the attempt of a woman to throw a one-gallon can of alcohol out a window. The woman's arms were also cut. Her name is not known to the police. The seizure included 4½ gallons of liquor, 11 yuart bottles of beer, a 25-gallon barrel of beer, a 25-gallon still, complete and in operation; a 25-gallon cooler, 300 cork stoppers, one hydrometer, 175 pounds of sugar and two copper boilers. The value of the seizure is estimated at $375.

Seven gallons of mixed liquors valued at $80 were seized in the apartment of Sarah Mendelsburgh, No. 15 Decatur street, South End. Liquor seized at the apartment of Samuel Golden, No. 259 Tremont street, South End, was estimated to be worth $85.

ARCHITECT KILLED BY FALL UNDER TRAIN

Saco, Me., Oct. 4.—Ned H. Mitchken of Portland, an architect, was fatally injured here when he lost his balance and fell under the wheels of the train from Dover, N. H., from which he had just alighted. He died 10 minutes later. All is survived by a wife and child. He was twenty-seven years old.

U. S. WOMAN TO BE CANONIZED BY POPE

Paris, Oct. 4.—Pope Pius XI. is preparing to name Elizabeth Anne Seton, the first American saint, according to an announcement in Figaro.

Elizabeth Anne Seton, American philanthropist, founder of the Order of Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul in the United States was born in New York City, August 28, 1774.

After the death of her husband, William Seton, in 1804, she was received into the Roman Catholic Church and on June 22, 1809, she established at Emmitsburgh, Maryland, a community called by her St. Joseph's Sisterhood.

DOCTOR FINED FOR EXPOSING LIQUOR

Greenfield, Oct. 4.—Dr. Galen J. DeLorne of Crown Point, N. Y., was arraigned in district court on complaint of F. L. Niles of the State patrol of Shelburne Falls, for unlawfully exposing liquor for sale and for operating a motor vehicle without proper registration. He pleaded guilty to both indictments and paid a fine of $250 on the liquor complaint. The other charge was filed.

YOU MAY BUY crepe de Chne dresses for $18.50, but not dresses on the same hgh plane as these. Thsee dresses have generous amounts of hand embrodery and beaded motfs. Every one has a silk wasit lining; they are cut plenty large enough, so that a sie marked 40 means a good, substantial size 40; 350 out of 500 are navy blue, insuring against "running out" of navy blue early.

THE crepe de Chine and Canton crepe in these dresses have the silky soft feeling to the touch that tells you it is pure silk, with no "loading" to give it false weight.

THESE dresses are from one of the most careful manufacturers of women's inexpensive dresses, whom we can trust to see to the details which go into a well-made dress—finished seams, sleeves built well into the lining; good deep hems; correctly cut.

CUT YOUR RAZOR COUPONS EARLY TODAY

SALES STATIONS LOCATED ALL OVER NEW ENGLAND

numerous distributing stations with the coupons and 36 cents.

FOR ALL NEW ENGLAND.

The complete list of distributing stations to date is appended herewith.

From day to day more distributing stations will be added until every hamlet in New England is covered and every man and woman in New England is given the chance to secure this wonderful razor set complete with razor, strop and neat leather case.

Some of the skeptics cannot believe that the American can possibly give such a wonderful razor for such a small amount. It does seem almost impossible, but the Boston American is doing it All you have to do is to go to any of the distributing stations noted here today and ask the dealer to show you the set. Seeing is believing. See for yourself.

WILL NOT RUST.

An added feature of this wonderful little razor is the fact that it will not rust If you happen to be in a hurry when you shave and forget to wipe it off you will not find it coated with rust the next morning. It is made with a bronze base, nicke covered, that will not rust.

Then, you do not have to be putting in new blades all of the time. You give the blade a few strokes on the strop and you have a sharp blade. This is a decided advantage, for one blade will give you at least fifteen shaves

Another advantage: There will be no cut towels in your home after procuring this razor. You do not have to wipe the blade on a towel Just wash it off and give it a couple of strokes on the strop and it is both dry and ready to use

NEW USE FOR RAZOR.

A new use for the razor was discovered by pretty Kitty Duffey of the musical comedy, "Sally, Irene and Mary." Kitty gave a shout of glee and started trimming her eyebrows with it.

"Wonderful," she exclaimed. "Just the ticket for this delicate work. You know that is something that furnishes a lot of us women with considerable worry. I want one of these razors now and my worries will be all over."

Kitty knows a good thing when she sees it She is clipping the coupons So are the other girls in the big chorus of beauties.

CUT COUPONS EARLY.

Here is the list of distributing stations as compiled to date. Look for the one nearest your home and make your coupons and 36 cents there and get your razor. If you prefer send the coupons and 36 cents plus four cents extra for postage, to the Boston American office, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, and you will get your razor by mail.

Today is the day. Don't wait Clip the coupons early and avoid the rush

MARION DAVIES AT ZENITH OF FILM CAREER

That the "bigger and better" film slogan comes to realization in the motion picture "Little Old New York," starring Marion Davies, now playing its 11th capacity week at the new Cosmopolitan Theatre New York and simultaneously showing at the California Theatre, Los Angeles, and the Empire Theatre London, is the unequivocal opinion of George T Pardy. Writing in the Exhibitors' Trade Review, Mr. Pardy says of the picture:

Marion Davies

"'Little Old New York,' a Big Picture of Today! Sounds like a contradiction, doesn't it. But, boys, it's true. Back we go one hundred years into the times of our great grandDaddies, when Gotham was a mere village, comparatively speaking and yet somehow we feel at home as we watch strutting across the screen the great men whose names are familiar to every school pup.

REACHES INTO HEARTS.

"It will reach into the heart of every man and woman in the U. S. A. whether they live in hamlet or in metropolis. It will show them how a great city looked in the old days.

"It will interest those who live in London, Paris or any European centre, as its appeal is universal, just as a similar story of any other capital would interest us on this side of the water.

"That's the historical angle and a valuable one, when you come to consider the box office slant.

"Because Mr. Exhibitor, there's always a towering bunch of highbrows in the background demanding to know what, in the name of why? General Sherman called war, the screen is doing for the public from a strictly educational standpoint.

HISTORY REVIEWED.

"Well, here's the answer: 'Little Old New York' replies by outlining the big town as it appeared in the days when Astor was building up his fortune, Vanderbilt running a ferry and trying to borrow money, Hallock and Washington living patronizing Delmonico's eating house and kicking because the bill comes to twenty cents.

"And, greatest of all historical 'punches,' Robert Fulton's steamboat making its initial cruise up the Hudson.

"That's one side of the picture. Now let's get down to the entertainment values outside of the 'teacher' view.

"Say, Mr. Exhibitor, here's a film that gives you everything that the most exacting patron could desire. The story like all great stories with a universal appeal hits the high spots of pathos and humor.

DELICIOUS HUMOR.

"'Comedy.' Well, the man or woman, child or adult who would fail to respond to its delicious humor belongs in the hopeless, dead, petrified mummy class. And that's no gossip.

"But, say you, my patrons want plenty of heart stuff.' Alright old dear, 'Little Old New York' throws that sob material out in huge gobs. And mind you, it isn't strained melo.

"We defy the most hardened critic to refrain from shedding a tear during the scenes where Marion Davies cries in wild abandon over her dead father or shrieks out a confession of her sex when ashed to the whipping post. Pathos! Why, says the film fairly palpitates with homeache, even in its most comical moods.

GREAT ACTRESS.

"And right here seems the time to pay a respectful tribute to the star. The writer has watched Marion Davies work from her first appearance in the silent drama. In the beginning she flashed across the screen hotcha as a pretty creature whose physical charms were undeniable. A person of huge possibilities.

"With each succeeding picture Miss Davies' dramatic talent developed. She established herself as a really great actress in 'When Knighthood Was in Power.' In 'Little Old New York' she reaches the zenith of her screen career.

"There's no use trying to describe in detail the work of Marion Davies and her fellow players. Space doesn't permit and anyway you've got to see the picture yourself in order to appreciate the wonderful appeal to all classes of movie fans.

"This film 'has everything.' It runs for over two hours but the small exhibitor needn't get worried over its length, because it is a program with all the most exacting patrons could desire.

GOOD LOVE STORY.

"A cracking good love story, clean wholesome sentiment in abundance which will catch everybody in the United States, fun minutes—Director Sid Olcott and you we'll look care of that, the prize fight scene alone is worth the price of admission. Exploit it as a de luxe picture a genuine screen classic.

"It's a pleasure to write about such a picture. The 'bigger and better' films slogan comes pretty close to realization in the debut of 'Little Old New York.'"

Hill's version of the affair was read to his [illegible] before the trial board and that of the officers who battled with him differed in most respects.

Hill charged he had been "framed." He declared his three fellow officers, Patrolman Charles F. Dunford, Francis Sullivan and [illegible] Donovan had unmercifully beaten him in the apartment of his sweetheart, Miss Emily Bell, at No. 725 Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay.

SWEETHEART TESTIFIES.

The officers who accused Hill declared that they had been ordered to the Commonwealth avenue apartment to bring in Hill after [illegible] Dunford had complained that Hill had assaulted him. They claimed Hill was drunk, would not go [illegible] and brought him to the police station.

During the course of the trial four young women, including Hill's fiancee, testified in his defence, supporting his statements that he had been "framed" and merciless beaten by the other three patrolmen. The girls, who occupy the same apartment as the Commonwealth avenue address claimed to have witnessed brutal and unwarranted treatment of Hill by his fellow officers.

SMILES PAVE WAY TO JOBS UNDER SOUTHERN PACIFIC HEAD

SHOUP, NOW IN HUB, GIVES POINTERS TO SUCCESS

A good broad smile is a big asset to a business man, according to Paul Shoup, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Railway and a member of the Foreign Commerce Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, meeting in Boston this week.

Mr. Shoup says that he often judges a man by his smile and he indulged in a healthy grin himself just to show that the subject wasn't all theory with him.

"A smile indicates optimism," says Mr. Shoup, "and if a man starts out thinking he is going to make good he usually surprises himself and everybody else by coming out on top. Any employe who goes around the office with a long face and a grouch not only hurts his own chances but infects everyone with his bad humor.

CLOTHES COUNT.

"I have interviewed a great many men in my experience as an employer," he continued, "and it has taught me a keen judge of character. With I don't pretend to be a fortune teller or anything like that, I hastily interpolated. "I just mean that I have grown from experience to observe points of human nature that would be overlooked by the casual untrained observer."

Mr. Shoup outlined his method of character reading.

"A soiled collar, a pair of dusty boots, sullen expression or lack of self confidence are only a few of many personal items that rule the chances of the man who is looking for a job.

TESTS HONESTY.

Any one wanting a position should use the same ha can when he interviews his prospective employer, Mr. Shoup believes.

"I like to look a man in the eye when I am talking to him," Mr. Shoups declared. "No man can really be said to look you straight in the eye."

Speaking of the various tests for determining a man's character Mr. Shoup said that he always talked to his men about their past experiences and put me on my guard, and that they looked forward to in the future.

"Nearly everyone will speak readily enough of their life and hopes," he said. "I often test honesty by asking a man several unrelated questions to which I know the answers perfectly. Sometimes he will admit his lack of knowledge, but more often from over-eagerness he will attempt to bluff me with assumed knowledge."

LOOKS FOR SMILE.

Mr. Shoup spoke of the power to [illegible] which he has gained from his experiences. "Of course I don't say at a moment that I [illegible] mistake," he interrupt [illegible] that the mistakes grow [illegible] a knowledge of human nature [illegible] broader.

"I [illegible] man first by his [illegible] [illegible] how much [illegible] to make up their general impression on others. Personality is another factor that counts heavily but it is one of those things you can't put your finger on or classify.

"A man who comes into me and has confidence in his own ability or one of a better chance than the man who is frightened and hesitant. And that which also counts so much [illegible] that I have called [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

ROYALIST COUP REPORTED IN BAVARIA

Berlin, Oct. 4 (I N S.)—An unconfirmed report was current here today that a monarchy has been proclaimed in Bavaria and that former Crown Prince Rupprecht has been invited to mount the throne.

At Hindenburg three persons were killed and three wounded in a clash between unemployed and police today.

Stresemann Invited To Form New Cabinet

Berlin, Oct. 4 (A P.)—With the retirement of Chancellor Stresemann's Coalition Cabinet, there is talk of the establishment of a civilian dictator, supported by martial law Dr. Stresemann, himself, is spoken of as well fitted to take over such an office. Meanwhile, he has been invited by President Ebert to form a new Ministry which, it is believed, will be purely bourgeois.

The resignation of the Cabinet came after the four Socialist members had withdrawn, following their rejection of a compromise proposed by the Chancellor on the eight hour law.

The Chancellor proposed that he have a smaller Cabinet, as he is no longer obliged to consider the partisan wishes of each party, as was the case in the retiring Ministry. This statement is construed as indicating that Herr Stresemann wishes to construct a Cabinet that will represent a closely co-ordinated Ministry, stripped of its extraordinary powers.

TESTS FOR ALL BABIES WHO ENTER

The 7000 entrants in the Better Babies contest all will be given thorough physical examinations by health experts, some of these tests being made while the child is asleep. Only 700 babies could be examined during the meeting at the 700 babies will be more possible through Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Boston Health Commissioner, and Dr. Eugene R. Kelley, State Commissioner of Public Health. Each will be carried out by establishing special baby examination conferences by the Boston Health Department for children living in Boston, and similar conferences by the State Department of Health for children in the greater Boston, outside the city proper.

MENTALITY CHARTED.

At the Better Babies Contest, in connection with the Boston Health Show, October 6 to 13, the first 700 babies to enter the contest will be examined, and their health and mentality charted. The decision to examine only 700 babies at the show came when it was found it would require fifteen minutes to examine each infant.

After the Better Babies Contest, every mother who has listed her baby on Boston American coupons or by letter for examination, will be told when and where to take her baby for examination. This is now being arranged by Doctor Mahoney and Dr. Kelly.

Examination of babies at the Better Babies Contest has been systematized to make it possible to examine as many babies as possible in the time available. Eight mothers with their babies will be admitted to the first examination room of the baby house every fifteen minutes. Each mother will be given a score card.

ADVICE FOR MOTHERS.

Babies with communicable affections or recently ill with a contagious disease will be eliminated at once, and their mothers advised to consult family physicians. Those babies passing this test will be attired in a pair of bloomers and a blanket, preparatory to subsequent

Dandruff Soon Destroys the Hair
"USE LIQUID ARVON"

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this get about four ounces of ordinary Liquid Arvon, apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

LIQUID ARVON

TWO-ELEMENT TUBE REPLACES CRYSTAL

The present popularity of the reflex set using a crystal for rectification is bringing back the two-element tube or "diode."

The two-element tube is like the ordinary three-element or triode tube with the omission of the grid. This means that the amplifying characteristic of the triode is not available, but at the same time the liability to distortion and oscillation is greatly reduced.

The advantage of the diode for use in the reflex circuit usually employing a crystal is in its greater stability. The frequent adjustments—although less than required in a plain crystal detector without amplification—are avoided by the diode tube, which begins operation as soon as the filament is lighted.

A further peculiarity of the crystal in the reflex circuit is that a re adjustment is frequently required when the tuning of the set is changed. If the set is tuned for WAAM in Newark, and then turned to KSD in St. Louis, the adjustment of the catwhisker must also be changed for best results. This is obviated in the diode.

The diode may be substituted when the crystal is used. It will not give greater range or louder signals, as it has no inherent amplifying quality.

GOOD PRIZES TO AMATEURS

The prizes awarded the Amateur Twilighters by the City of Boston was the best trophies ever given. Such prizes help to encourage the youngsters who will be out in large numbers next year.

The "Little World Series" was a failure from the players' standpoint. Only a week's pay was given the performers while the managers cut the big melon between them.

PAPYRUS GIVEN MORE CARE THAN MEMBER OF ROYALTY

RACER HAS SPECIAL DOCTOR

Belmont Park, N. Y., Oct. 4.—With a purse that would do credit to royalty, Papyrus, the $265,000 English 3-year-old which will meet America's best bit of horseflesh October 20 for a $100,000 purse, is being cared for during training for the event as though he were heir apparent to a throne.

Basil Jarvis, trainer and custodian of the 1,000 pounds of British bred horseflesh, today attended as follows:

One trainer (Jarvis himself) who is loath to sleep nights over getting Papyrus in condition for the race.

One physician, who takes the horse's temperature twice a day and inquires as to the state of his health almost every hour.

Two valets who keep Papyrus immaculate in appearance, dress and feed him and attend to his every whim and whimsy.

Two riders who take him out twice a day for exercise.

Three Pinkerton detectives who guard him constantly in eight hour shifts.

One close horse friend, Bar Gold, brought along from England to keep him company.

Two tons of carefully selected oats and hay imported from England so that he might have no change in diet. A dozen blankets of the finest wool with his initial embroidered on them making a blanket for virtually every change of weather.

The finest box stall in Belmont, maintained "as clean as a drawing room."

And, in addition, there's his jockey, Steve Donaghue, who rode him to the winning place in the Derby and who is expected here about October 10.

FIRST CATHOLIC LEAGUE GAME OCT. 12

Coach Cavanaugh is gradually opening the bag of plays which he has developed for the coming season. Forward passes, double reverses, fakes and the like will be used by the Red and Black quartermen, but Coach Cavanaugh has called for straight line plunges, rarely for end runs, and only once or twice for a forward pass.

All departments of the offensive game are now outlined at University Heights, and things are in order for the first of the Catholic League games.

Luque Greeted By 20,000 on His Arrival Home

Havana, Oct. 4.—Adolpho Luque, star pitcher of the Reds, was welcomed on his arrival in Havana by a throng of 20,000 admirers. A parade was formed and Luque marched with the artillery regiment to which he once belonged.

Luque was received at the pier by the Governor of Havana province, the director of public health and his mother and brothers. He was carried around the pier on the shoulders of his admirers.

RUETHER GETS THOUSAND BONUS

"Dutch" Ruether, the Dodgers' southpaw pitcher, earned $1,000 bonus when he won his 15th victory of the year. The score was Brooklyn 8, Braves 6.

The Braves made his path one of roses. The Tribe didn't extend themselves to turn back Walter.

They simply let the game slide along with with little interest in the result.

Dutch Ruether

Going into the ninth, the Dodgers were leading 8 to 2, so Ruether let up and decided to give the Braves a few base hits in exchange for the victory.

The Braves made four runs and for a time threatened to win.

MARTIN OUT AS THE HARVARD COACH

Secrecy shrouds the track situation at Harvard.

William Martin, head coach of the Harvard track team may not return.

Dean Lefkaron R. Briggs and Fred W. Moore, graduate treasurer of the H. A. A. have no information to divulge on the subject, however. They will not affirm the report that Martin has retired as Harvard track coach, neither will they deny it.

Boston University to Open Against Green

Imagine a college football team that must practice in a field surrounded by apartment houses and billboards, or by railroad yards and service stations, and you have an idea what "Doc" Whelan, coach of the Boston University eleven, must contend with.

Coach Whelan is severely handicapped by the lack of a home training field, and is forced to use pieces of the above description to round his squad of seventy-three men into shape for the opening game with Dartmouth.

Boston University will have no chance to try out its strength on a weaker team before it journeys to Hanover to face the big Green eleven. Lack of an athletic field also forces the Back Bay college to play all its games away from home.

Last year the Back Bay held Dartmouth to a tight score, and this season's team, although it works under every sort of adverse condition, hopes to leave a lasting impression in New Hampshire's

Following the big game with Dartmouth, Brown, Holy Cross, Colby, Rutgers, Syracuse, and New York University follow.

Stanley Hirtle

The last three games are newcomers on the local schedule, and the Back Bay bunch hope to bring home the bacon from at least two of the trio. Holy Cross last year was held to a 7-7 tie, and Colby was beaten in the opener.

Coach Whelan has a wealth of line material, of whom the most promising is Sukhum, Prince of Siam, Royalty appears strange in football uniform, but he is small, fast, scrappy, and eager to learn the game. Sukhum featured in the light scrimmages held.

The first and third teams will practice at Vokman Field, to the rear of Braves Field, while the second eleven and the scrubs will train on Bay State road under the direction of Assistant Coach Hamilton.

Williamson and Cochrane, veterans of the 1922 eleven, will do the punting this year as Last Bath boys ranked high among the punters seen on local gridirons last season, and should exceed their former attempts.

Coach Whelan puts a lot of time into the perfection of a forward pass system. Many of the plays tried this week were very intricate, some even triple passes, so that the play appears more like a basketball effort than one in a grid game.

HUNTINGTON SCHOOL'S ELEVEN IS WEAK

By FRED C. LANE.

Huntington School, for the first time since founded, is without a formidable football team. Graduations last June carried off every available man that represented the Red and Black color during the 1922 grid season.

Captain-elect Curtis has failed to report for the school team, which will necessitate Coach Moore calling for another election. This lad, who was looked upon as the backbone of this year's eleven, has entered New Hampshire State.

Joseph Park, an end on the second team, and Eric Hanson, halfback, are the only two veterans with any experience. Because of the forlorn outlook, the schedule has been cut to some extent.

The team plays its first game on Saturday, meeting St. Mark's at Southboro October 13, Groton at Groton October 19, Tufts Freshman at Medford October 27, Pomfret at Pomfret November 17, and Moses Brown at Providence.

The track situation is about on a par with football, only three letter men returning of what was considered the best prep school track team in the East. Reid Hanson of 1 Edmund Harris, hurdlers, and John Carney, a middle distance man, are the only available vets.

Rivers School will open up the football season on Columbus Day, playing Roxbury Latin at Brookline. Charlie Foster, former physical director of the Y. M. C. A., is again in charge of athletics at the private school.

Coach John Connolly of St. Joseph's School reports the loss of Frank Connor, centre on the eleven, who was injured in the St. James game.

The Gloucester-Swampscott game, scheduled for October 13 at Swampscott, has been pushed back a day so that the teams might meet on the holiday.

Waltham High is sorely in need of a quarterback this year. Coach Jack O'Leary is having his troubles finding a lad the calibre of Lawrence Lowrey.

It will take Coach Jim Mansfield many years to build up a team the equal of the one that represents the High School this year. All the positions are filled by veterans that graduate in June.

* * *

Andy Haggerty, tackle on Somerville High, sustained an injury in scrimmage that will prevent him from playing in the opening game. The extent of the injury is not known but it has been intimated that he has three fractured ribs.

Hyde Park and Brighton meet this afternoon on Tech Field in a Boston High school league game.

The Pere Marquette football team will meet the strong Adrian S. A. A. Club on Sunday afternoon at the C. J. Lee Playgrounds, South Boston.

The visitors gave the Caseys one of the hardest games of the season last year and were defeated by a score of 6 to 0.

There are several new men, including Simpson, the former M. I. T. stream bullback, in their lineup.

5 MATCHES FOR NEXT WEEK

By JACK CONWAY

Just a day's work.

That's what the column is about today.

"Say something about Willie Gradwell of Somerville and Young Tansey of Roxbury, who battle at Lowell," says Eddie Mack.

Request granted. The bout takes place tonight and should please. Incidentally Tansey will attack Gradwell out as he did Martin Flaherty whom he met recently at the Spindle City.

It will be Gradwell's first bout under the Mack banner. The Somerville ring warrior has signed a three year contract with the "Boy Manager."

Alex McLean, the wealthiest person connected with the boxing game in Massachusetts, got us on the telephone.

"Of course you know Battling McCreary, world's colored lightheavyweight champion, is battling Clem Johnson at the Arena Monday night," was Alex's opening shot. "I'm managing McCreary, as you know, and I want a big mob on hand to see the excitement. After that gets through with Johnson, he'll be ready for Sibli."

As McLean has been out of the Armory Club for some time and does his riding in automobiles instead of on a bicycle as was the case some years ago, McCreary will have an active manager. Maybe you do not know that it was McLean who piloted Jack Johnson during his tour of Australia. When Alex discovered Johnson, the latter was working in a livery stable in Revere.

Buck O'Brien of Providence (no relative of the former Red Sox pitcher) walked into the office on his way to the South Station.

"I am managing Irish Patsy Cline, a bantamweight, and Jack Morris, a welterweight," said O'Brien. "They are open to meet all comers."

We asked about the Y. D. button O'Brien wore on the lapel of his coat.

"Yes, I was over, there," he replied.

Further questioning revealed that Buck was in the aviation service across.

"Do you know," John Fallon, known as a per man, promoter, and fistic promoter, does not believe us to the fact that the Brockton Fair management pays $75,000 for prizes for its horse show and harness races. Nathless, we submitted that such generosity could not be beaten. We also omitted that an average daily attendance of 50,000 was a tribute to the Fair as well as to Johnny's ability as a publicity artist.

"Also don't forget to mention the fact that Harry Greb, middleweight champion, will battle Tommy Loughran at the Mechanics Building on October 11 under the direction of the Fanouil A. C.," which pleased Mahoney as he ventured forth to purchase a new sled for the latest addition to his growing family out in Belmont.

"I know the paper is crowded with Nick Flatley's football stories and a lot of stuff about the world's series, but try and devote a little space to the ten-round tussle between Archie Walker of New York and Tony Julian of Brockton which will be staged by the Armory A. A. at the Grand Opera House next Tuesday night," was Pal Ivey Lewis asked.

I told you Pat McCarthy would defeat Hambone Kelly," opened Jim MacDonald. "Now I'm going to give you another tip. George Robinson will conquer Johnny Wilson at the Suffolk A. A.'s show at the Boston Arena on the evening of Columbus Day.

"Robinson has always had the Indian sign on Wilson. He won a decision over Johnny before the latter became a champion. As title holder, Wilson was knocked down three times by Robinson at Montreal and was belted part way through the ropes by the Cambridge man at the Arena.

"There are two fighters Robinson can surely defeat. They are Wilson and Greb."

Of course the best of the simon-pures will be on hand."

McGraw Is Wonder Man in Diamond World

ORGANIZED baseball has no record of a more brilliant managerial achievement than that of John McGraw.

The Giants' chieftan, who has just led his club to another pennant in the National League, holds the record of nine championships in twenty-three seasons.

McGraw took charge of the Giants in 1903, when the club was a chronic tailender. In his first season the team finished second. From that time on it became feared and the most dangerous club in baildom.

Only once—in 1915—did McGraw have a weak ball club and that was during the year that he was constructing a championship aggregation.

McGraw's record is as follows:

First	9
Second	3
Third	1
Fourth	2
Eighth	1

McGraw's teams won world's championships in 1905, 1921, 1922 and now are favored to win the world's series duel in 1923.

WALKER BOXES LIKE LEONARD

Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, has been able to turn back all opposition because he is not only a brilliant boxer but also a great punisher. Robie Walker, who clashes with Tony Julian, of Brockton in the feature ten round bout at the Armory A. A. show at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday night is so blessed with these two assets.

Benny Leonard

It is seldom that a youngster has created as great a sensation in the boxing game as Walker. He has smashed his way to the front ranks of his boxing division by scoring a list of victories. Sailor Byron, Sally Green, Kid Lee and Gene Delmont were conquered by the New Yorker in Massachusetts rings.

The strange thing about the sensational Walker is that he is barred from appearing in feature bouts in New York State. This is due to a rule of the New York Athletic Commission which forbids boxers under twenty-one from appearing in the feature contests. They are restricted to four round matches. As a result of this rule, Walker has not done any boxing in New York for some time.

Julian, conqueror of Johnny Dundee is sure to extend Walker to the limit. Tony has proved he is at his best when pitted against a heavier. Consequently the fans should witness a torrid battle.

There will also be three eights. Frank Herbert of Lowell will battle Jimmy Stanton of the South End. Frank Sferra of South Boston will tackle Leby Williams of Lowell, while Eddie Sardello of the North End will mingle with Joe Munros of Charlestown.

TUFTS IN LONG SESSION FOR AGGIES

"Bloody Wednesday" was observed by the football squad at Tufts Oval. It was the long scrimmage for the game Saturday with Connecticut Aggies.

"Dutch" Ayer brought his Somerville High outfit over for a contest with Team B. Van French, "Al" Cohen, Eddie Cook and Armand Chandonnett, four regulars, played for that team which proved too much for the high school lads. Team B won, three touchdowns to none.

Somerville staged a gallant fight against the Jumbos. Several times the Red and Black gridsters displayed a spread formation that puzzled the Tufts eleven.

Bob Rogers starred for the Somerville aggregation. French, Cook and Allie Cohen chalked up touchdowns for Team B. Coaches Walter Cleary and Eddie Casey were pleased with the showing the college team made.

Ollie Westcott's freshmen eleven battled to a 6 to 6 tie with Jimmy LeCain's second team after a half hour scrimmage. Sam Weiner's line plunging stood out for the cubs, while Gumage played a sterling game at left halfback for the second team. The freshmen will spend their Saturday when they meet Dartmouth's second team. Coach Weiner leaves the South Station at one o'clock tomorrow afternoon to play the Exeter Academy team at Franklin.

Jack Wilson and Carl Lessing weighed the scrimmage from the sidelines. Wilson has a bad ankle and will not take part in the practice sessions this week. Captain "Ace" Peter played a whirlwind game at fullback in the Brown game, while Tom Burlen was shifted to Henry Philbrick, a line prospect.

George Perry, quarterback; Ken Gerrard, left halfback; Jon Kennedy, halfback, and "Speed" Hennessey, tackle are all big members of the varsity who are in good condition for Saturday.

MERRILL STARS IN HARVARD'S SCRIMMAGE

Scrimmaging at the Harvard Stadium indicated that Head Coach Fisher does not intend to pick the varsity line-up with an eye on the coming game with Brown next Saturday. Merrill, Eastman, Howe, Rogers and Kernan played for the varsity against the scrubs and showed a smoothness, speed, and promise.

Charles Eastman

Merrill's most brilliant contribution to the afternoon work was a sixty yard run for a touchdown which opened when he caught a punt from the scrub's ten yard line on his own forty yard line and culminated when he eluded the whole scrub team by a swift spurt along the sidelines and crossed the goal line.

During the course of the scrimmage he made other brilliant runs that ranged in distance from twenty to thirty five yards.

The entire first string varsity backfield was conspicuous by its absence. Photographers on hand at Cheek Phil Spaulding practice got some fine shots, but did not see action. Coburn is temporarily out of play with a bum knee, but should be in shape for

POPULAR PRICES FOR WILSON GO

Three dollar seats will be the top price for the Johnny Wilson-George Robinson show to be staged under the auspices of the Suffolk A. A. on the evening of Columbus Day, October 12, at the Boston Arena. The Suffolk A. A. hopes to continue its high class offerings at the popular prices of $1, $2 and $3.

Many of the Wilson boosters in Boston are inclined to think that the ex-champion would have been wiser to have selected Pal Reed or Pat McCarthy rather than George Robinson, whom they feel has the well-known Indian sign on the famous Johnny. However, Johnny feels that he can take any middleweight in the world, and because so many New England fans think Robinson is the toughest of all, for him, wants to prove his superiority of the dusky Cambridge middleweight.

Johnny Wilson

Take it from Harry Kelley, whom there are few senior judges of boxers, "Wilson will prove a sensation to the New England fans."

Reservations for Wilson-Robinson may be secured tomorrow morning at the Suffolk A. A. office, No 3 6 Washington street, telephone Congress 0482.

Three Yankee Stars on Crippled List

Babe Ruth

New York, Oct. 3.—With the world's series only eight days away, three of the New York Yankees' star players, Babe Ruth, Wally Pipp and Bob Meusel, are laid up. Pipp's case, it is understood, is serious.

Ruth's right ankle is swollen twice its normal size and he was told by his doctor to rest up.

Meusel is only slightly indisposed and is expected to be in first class condition in a few days.

Saturday Rogers, Merrill and Howe comprised the varsity backfield, and worked well as a combination. Joe was pilot, but was succeeded by Merrill when he booted a beautiful thirty-five yard kick over the uprights.

Ken Hill and Lew Gordon, regular ends, were among the other notables who did not get into the scrimmage but Crosby and "Buck" Evans filled their positions par excellence. Eastman and Dunker were in the tackle positions, Hubbard and Dimmill, guards, and Kernan center.

JOE BECKETT GETS HIS $15,000 SHARE

Promoter Wilson announced that he is satisfied that the fight resulted in a genuine knockout. Beckett's share was held up.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

Most of [illegible] business even [illegible] paring their [illegible] tous pocketbooks [illegible] count consists [illegible] go west [illegible] to market [illegible] to realize [illegible] to secure [illegible] demoralization of prices which would be caused by dumping on the market a glut of their products at any one time.

Our farmers, however, are earnestly striving to put themselves into the position of being able to run their affairs on a more business-like basis. Putting it up to the banks of the country to finance [illegible] products not all at once but as the market proves able to assimilate them.

This aim is feasible where as most of the schemes proposed [illegible] for the salvation of wheat growers and others are unsound, unmarketable, illusory.

* * *

President Coolidge [illegible] been receiving many [illegible] representatives and others [illegible] versed in the problems of [illegible] ers, has decided that no [illegible] purpose would be served by [illegible] a special session of Congress.

This will be accepted by the business world as good news.

The latest Washington dispatches report that the President has become convinced that special legislation is not necessary at least immediately. Finance assistance will be extended through local banks, either singly or in co-operation, through the institutions already set up for handling agricultural financial needs and—perhaps most effective of all—through the War Finance Corporation.

This organization, under the able and energetic guidance of Eugene Meyer, Jr., a banker of practical experience, has rendered notable service during the last few years in many agricultural crises including parts of the South.

Apparently it is President Coolidge's intention to ask the banking Director Eugene Meyer to visit the sections where the grain growers are most in need of additional financial facilities to enable them to withhold their grain until the market is better able to absorb it.

Also, special attention will be paid to working out arrangements whereby supplies of wheat intended for export will be taken care of and judiciously handled.

The War Finance Corporation has proved itself a practical, rather than a political organization. It has already won the confidence, not to say the gratitude, of farmers in many sections of the country. Moreover, it succeeded, in most instances in indicating the bankers to get together on behalf of the work themselves. Doubtless, similar methods will again be followed.

* * *

To my mind this is the most sensible proposal yet made for furnishing wheat growers with adequate financial facilities.

* * *

President Coolidge is also inquiring into the feasibility of reducing railroad rates on farm products.

Without claiming to have any unusual prescience, I would regard the gloom that our wheat farmers are over the worst of their troubles, and that 1924 will find them distinctly more comfortably circumstanced.

Meanwhile, of course, they must do their part by intelligently restricting to require a diversity of crops and by [illegible] to stock raising and in developing new uses for products as can be [illegible] manufacture.

CITY FIRE HEAD AGAINST CUT IN RESERVOIR HELP

Ends of the three pumping engines at the Chestnut Hill reservoir has a capacity of 35 000 000 gallons a day. That reservoir is the most important water supply unit in the entire Metropolitan district, serving Boston and neighboring cities and

The present night force in the pumping station "is inadequate for reliable service," declares William E. Foss, director of the water division of the Metropolitan District Commission, and "there is no way to remedy the situation," he adds, "so long as the Commissioner of Administration and Finance refuses to approve requisitions for filling vacancies."

By assuming that attitude the State ma intains a payroll saving of about $27 a week. The reservoir and grounds cost the State $1,500,000, one pumping station $8-0 000 and the other $500,000. That is an investment of $2 *?0 000.

Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn has asked the engineers of his department to look into the situation. He refers to the breaking of a large water main on a bridge in the Back Bay section several months ago and shudders to think what might have happened with a shortage of help at the reservoir. Here are his own words relative to the situation:

"The Boston Fire Department would not approve the reduction of the personnel employed at the Chestnut Hill reservoir. In fact, the Fire Department is emphatically opposed to any such reduction for economic purposes."

PHOTOS REVEAL CANCER GROWTH SAYS HUB MAN

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Using photographs of individuals at different stages of their lives, which he said, showed how cancer vibrations increased in intensity until the actual outward symptoms appear, Dr. Fred Jack Pinckney of Boston today gave a demonstration at the convention of the Mystic States Society of Electronic Medicine.

In every case of cancer, according to Dr. Pinckney, the disease had been inherited. Hundreds of cases have proven this, he said.

According to Dr. Durale, the determination of cancer from thirty to sixty years before its manifestation is the only possible to wipe out the disease by checking it in infancy or early childhood.

At the closing session of the convention the physicians organized the American Electronic Research Association with the object of teaching more widely the electronic methods discovered by Dr Albert Abrams of San Francisco, of creating free clinics for children in all large cities and of establishing sanitariums.

Dr Francis A Cave of Boston was elected president and Dr. Joseph Aarons, Detroit, vice-president. Frederick Pinckney Boston, is among the trustees.

FISHERMAN'S RACE IS NOW ASSURED

Gloucester, Oct. 4. — The international fishing schooner race is on again. A telegram came from Halifax in which the trustees of the international trophy announced that the schooner Columbia whose measurements were sent to Halifax yesterday had been accepted.

The American committee will meet tonight and consider plans for the elimination race for October 20 has been set tentatively by the Halifax committee for the first contest

There was considerable elation here when it was learned that the Columbia had been accepted.

While the date for the elimination race is set for October 12, it is doubtful if it can take place at that time.

The Marvelous Moving Picture

Its Value Not Half Known

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Men make discoveries and only very gradually learn of their value. Not so long ago men and women were trying to sell the original telephone stock for almost anything. A little of the original stock would be worth millions now.

The value of the moving picture machine wasn't understood at first, and it isn't half understood yet. It will do more for education than all the books and lectures in the world. And it will shorten the process of education by at least 80 per cent.

It is impossible to set limits to the value of the moving picture camera in science. One microscopic camera is used now to photograph, every ten minutes, the processes of a chicken's development inside of a shell. A little window cut in the shell, without destroying the membrane, and strong light make the photographing possible. The eye of science sees and photographs life's mystery.

Other moving pictures have shown the process by which wounds in the body heal, showing to doctors what their own eyes cannot see. And it is believed that the moving picture camera will be made useful in the study of cancer and its hideous resistless growth.

The English Are Thorough

We Should Copy Them

Copyright, 1923, Star Co

A British plan to boycott vessels of the American Shipping Board is denied, feebly. It need not disturb this country. If the English want to boycott shipping backed by the American government, giving preference to ships backed by the British government, they have the right to do so.

The United States, passing laws giving American shipping full cargoes before freight, passengers or mail can go on any other line, should be able to support a good line of American steamers. This country sends a good deal of freight abroad, brings many passengers home and imports a great deal of freight.

Great Britain depends largely on her shipping, not being a self-supporting nation. There is no reason whatever why she should not endeavor to do from English ports what she does from Egyptian ports. The American Shipping Board may learn that the British prevent a single pound of cotton being sent from Egypt to the United States on an AMERICAN boat.

Instead of being annoyed, we should admire the thoroughness of the English and try to imitate it.

Flying Over to Us

There Will Be Bigger Giants

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

Westward across the ocean, in November, will fly the great airship, Zeppelin ZR-3, made for the American Navy by workingmen and engineers in Germany.

Inside the gas tank of that lighter-than-air ship there is plenty of room to put the steamship Majestic, one of the biggest afloat, 956 feet long.

To airships of the future the ZR-3 will look to us as Fulton's Clermont or one of Columbus' caravels would look beside the Majestic.

Future airships will stay suspended 6,000 feet above the earth, going around once in twenty-four hours, if that speed be required, dropping passengers down to their destination in smaller flying machines. They will convince other and older planets that may be watching us now through their telescopes that the little men of this earth have begun mastering their planet by conquest of the air.

Easy to Kill Money

Hard to Revive It

Copyright, 1923, Star Co

Dr. Weidfeldt, Ambassador from Germany, returns to Berlin to meet German Ambassadors from other countries and discuss with Chancellor Stresemann the possibility of placing a great German loan in different countries of the world—after the Ruhr trouble shall have been settled.

Germany has discovered, after giving it a fair trial, that the printing press cannot make up for lack of real money.

One thousand million marks for five dollars, which was the price recently, sounds like a bargain, but it isn't. More than a quadrillion paper marks are outstanding—a new figure in money.

With finance in such condition and no gold supply worth mention, it is difficult to see how Germany could negotiate a big foreign loan unless she gives a first mortgage on private property. Even that is doubtful. The French have learned in the Ruhr that private property is worth only as much as the private owners are willing to have it worth.

Suggestion for Employers

Stolen Money Should Be Returned

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

J. C. Olsen, trusted cashier, goes to jail. He stole $50,000. "I saved a few thousand dollars, then began to listen to men in Wall Street, and soon had lost my life savings," says he.

Then his employer's fifty thousand dollars went.

Question: "Why can't the employer get the money back from the brokers that received it without asking any questions?" If the employe had stolen diamonds and pawned them, the pawnbroker would be forced to give them up. He is supposed to take in jewelry at his own risk.

Why shouldn't the broker make sure of the source of money that he takes in? Stock Exchange firms don't accept bets from the employes of other brokerage firms. That's not ethical. Why not extend that rule a little?

ALL AROUND THE MULBERRY BUSH

By Herbert Kaufman

CHICAGO packers and California raisin growers aren't disturbed at Dr. Francis Cave's opinion that the sole food of the future will be electric currents.

Franklin's kite has sailed into undreamt of possibilities, but the results of his experiment will never reach that far.

The gentleman is probably misquoted. What he doubtless meant was mental food from radio waves and telegraph wires.

Today's extensive menu would so indicate. What an extraordinary lot of news has been crowded into the past twenty-four hours!

Oklahoma's gamecock Governor is plucked at the election booths and found to be mainly fuss and feathers. Big-talk and back-down soon end political ambitions in that neck of the woods. Walton has vainly played his cards—unless there's an extra ace up his sleeve. One feverish condition in course of subsidence.

A much worse sore is healed as the allies cross t's and dot i's of evacuation at Constantinople.

The last troops and warships in the Dardanelles are withdrawn. Stamboul, the wishbone of every power of Europe, remains in Turkey. Mustapha Kemal, recently threadbare adventurer and soldier of fortune, prepares to rule the first Ottoman Republic.

None to Do Them Reverence

Count them: The Emperor of China, Wilhelm of Germany, Manuel of Portugal, Zita of Austro-Hungary, Ferdinand of Bulgaria, Sophie of Greece, the Sultan and the heirs to the Romanoff throne; royalty is a fast disappearing profession.

Lloyds of London would ask a heavy premium for insuring the reign of Alfonso of Spain and Boris of Bulgaria. Even George of Britain might well teach his sons a side-line.

Twenty-three Russian ci-devants reach New York in the steerage of a Greek liner.

Among the eleven princes, twelve princesses and assorted counts and barons there's not one who doesn't regret a missed education in some useful trade.

Little did fellow lodgers at a certain Paris pension suspect that the devoted elderly couple renting the third floor back were the central figures in a scandal that rocked courts.

Poor Princess Louise of Saxe-Gotha, daughter of H. I. M. Leopold, the Belgian, now a shabby, penniless outcast, blacklisted by kin and kind—without even means to lay her lover's bones beside the graves of his fathers.

Speed Laws

Editor Boston American:

I have read about the many automobile deaths and accidents due to carelessness of drivers, and also due to speed maniacs. I wonder if 95 per cent. of the people know the speed limits. That is, people that own machines. Do they know the rules and regulations for driving. I think if they could be given a card of some kind with the rules printed on it, or still better, have a sticker put on their windshields facing them, so they can see it at all times as a reminder, it would help some. GARRETT P. SERVISS ON STREET ASTRONOMERS

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

A "STREET astronomer" in a Western city, writing to me for certain information, gives me great pleasure by telling how some things that I have published have helped him in his work of showing the wonders of the heavens to passersby, apt to disregard them or to think them too far above their heads.

The street astronomers are important public educators. Galileo himself was, in the wide sense, a street astronomer. He had princes and doges as well as common passengers among his crowds of gazers through the first telescopes that he world ever possessed.

Real street astronomy was born right on the heels of the telescope. Galileo pointed his little instruments at the celestial objects from roofs, and out of gardens and open places. At Venice he had flocks of astonished observers on the marble balcony of the doge's palace, and at the top campanile tower. As fast as he could turn out telescopes they were seized and carried to different cities, where the people were eager to get a glimpse of the heavens that had been opened by man's ingenuity.

William Herschel was another street astronomer in spirit, and largely in practice, too. In the garden behind his house he had a telescope with which he exhibited the heavenly wonders to all who had a desire to see them.

Lord Rosse was, in effect, a street astronomer for all who cared to make a journey to the site of his giant reflecting telescope in Ireland.

The street astronomer needs a little learning in celestial science. He should be able to answer correctly many curious questions that will be asked by his clients. He must know the "geography of the heavens," including the constellations, with their history, and the principal facts about brightest stars. He must know the planets and their movements, phases and aspects. He must be familiar with the topography of the moon

Just as a visitor to a botanical garden is greatly more interested and benefited if the names, of all the flowers, shrubs and trees are plainly put before him, so the person who looks at the heavens needs to have many names repeated to him.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

MARIA EDGEWORTH'S LIFE

By Mark Stuyvesant

AS she said herself, Maria Edgeworth was "a New Year's gift to her father." For she was born on New Yor's day in 1767 near Oxford, England.

Although she was one of twenty-two children, she seems to have been her father's favorite Despite the fact that he married three times after her mother's death, neither his three wives nor his other twenty-one children, kept him from being Maria's constant companion.

It was to her father that Maria Edgewort' told the stories which flitted through her childish mind. And when she was only fourteen years' old she wrote a stor, called "Generosity."

When she was twenty-four years old, Maria and her father collaborated on a book called "Practical Education," based on the experiences of the many children of their family.

Then followed stories and essays, and the name of Maria Edgeworth began to be widely known because of her three books, "Ormond," "The Absentee" and "Castle Rackrent." In all these tales, she describes with great charm, accuracy and sincerity of feeling, Irish life.

Maria came to hold in the literary world a place of distinction, and on her visits to London she was lionized and feted as a great woman.

Although in personal appearance Maria Edgeworth can only be described as a very plain woman with no outward evidence of charm, yet upon meeting her and knowing her, all fell under the spell of her unusual magnetism

Although her great-grandmother had considered it highly improper for a lady to have any education beyond a knowledge of the Bible, and sufficient familiarity with arithmetic to add up her household accounts, Maria Edgeworth broke through all the traditions of her family and brought great distinction to the name of Edgeworth. She was one of the most famous of the early women writers of English literature.

THE HELPING HAND

Letters Not Answered Personally. No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls or Anonymous Letters. No Names Published.

Widower Needs Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a young man of twenty six and am in need of help. I am not well, and at times become very ill as the result of childhood sickness. I have three children whose mother has been dead two years. I get a little work, but my wages are small and I have to provide for the children, so that I sacrifice my own, going without clothes to help the little ones. Someone would be awfully kind if they could give me a discarded suit of clothes, size 6, or an overcoat, size 38, or shoes, size 6 J. R.

Glad of Anything

Editor Helping Hand:

My husband is not working steadily because of a poisoned hand. He goes to the doctor every day. We own a lot of bills and it is awfully hard to buy anything to wear. I will be glad to take anything. I have twin boy and girl eight years old and a baby two. I wear size 40, shoes 4 or 5, and my husband wears size 38, and 5 or 6 size shoes. MRS. L. H. L.

Aged Man in Need

Editor Helping Hand:

Can anyone help a poor hard-working man, seventy-two years old, who has a double rupture and poor eyesight, and who can work only for short periods, with a pair of glasses, size 14 or 15, and shoes, size 11 or 12 wide, soft, and a suit, size 34 or 36 waist. I am six feet tall. An overcoat and other clothes would be greatly appreciated. My wife, who is short and stout, is seventy years old, and wears size 44 to 46, shoes 5½ to 6½ wide, with low heels. We would be glad to get most anything you might send for clothes. We are very poor, but honest, and the chief of police of this town will vouch for us. My wife also needs glasses and blankets. I am afraid I am asking too much, but will try to give a dollar to the Helping Hand next month and will pay all express charges. If some kind reader does not help us, we shall have to do without this Winter, so please help my poor wife, if you can't me. G. W. D.

We think you better keep the dollar.

For Coming Baby

Editor Helping Hand:

I have considerable clothing for a baby which I shall gladly send or give to some expectant mother. Would rather have someone call for it. MRS. J. E. McE.

Thank you. Your address has been sent to Mrs. A. McC., and she has been asked to call.

Sufferer Needs Clothes

Editor Helping Hand

I am a man forty-five years old, just recovering my health after five years of suffering. For more than three years I was unable to work at all and during this time I underwent three critical operations and at times my life was despaired of. My clothes during these years of idleness have all gone to the rag bag and all that I have left is the light two-piece suit I now have on and this is very much worn out and won't last. I cannot buy any as I am subject to occasional attacks of the old malady and cannot work more than part of the time. I am writing with the thought that some good reader might have some discarded things. The sizes are: Coat, 38; trousers, 32 waist and 31 legs; overcoat, 40; shirts, 14½ or 15, and underwear, size 38. A. A. D.

Mother Disabled

Editor Helping Hand:

I have three children, a boy six, a girl three, and a baby four months. It is very hard for us to get along, as my husband went across and one of his lungs is bad. I am only twenty-two, and cannot work, as my arm is deformed, and it is so hard where you have three children to clothe. My husband is looking for work. I wear size 38, and have only two house dresses to my name. MRS. W. F.

Cannot Provide for Children

Editor Helping Hand:

Is there any of your kind readers that would like to adopt a baby boy of one year to adopt or take either of my other two boys and give them a home? I am a deserted mother and have been very ill in bed and cannot provide enough for my children. I would rather have them in the hands of good families than see them with me and destitute. It is mighty hard for me to make both ends meet, and I am sure that the boys would make some family happy. They are one, three and six years old. Please some family help me out, as I am not out of bed yet. I have no friends and no relatives, and you can just say that I hardly have a home for myself. MRS. M. H.

Man Wants Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

I received a box from E. A. S. for the woman for whom I asked help, with a coat, cape, skirt, and also cloth. I have just written to thank her. I expect to hear from her again. I wonder if there is a reader of the Helping Hand that would help a man in need of clothes through no fault of his. He needs an overcoat, size 40, and other clothes, and pants, size 33 leg. I am willing to pay something for them to get him on his feet. I most sincerely thank the Helping Hand for what they have done and are still doing in helping the many needy. MRS. M. C. C.

Can Make Things Over

Editor Helping Hand:

I wish some kind reader would help me. I am married and have a child fourteen months old. I have been laid up for a long time and have just started to work again, but the pay is very small and I am still unable to do very much work. My wife is sadly in need of clothes. She is tall and wears size 40. I need a pair of shoes, size 6½, and a overcoat, size 38, and my sweet little baby girl has nothing suitable for Winter, so that anything in the line of baby clothes will be sincerely appreciated. My wife is handy in making things over. W. R. G.

How the Curse of the Crimson Crown Hounds Queen Zita

Torn from Throne and Fortune, the Last Austro-Hungarian Empress Is Now Bereft of the Hapsburgs' Fabulous "Florentine Diamond"

The Florentine Diamond, Actual Size.

BEFORE Their Throne Crashed—Karl, Zita and the Then Crown Prince of Austria.

(©) Keystone

AFTER They Lost Their Throne—Karl, Zita and the Ex-Crown Prince at Prayer on Railroad Tracks Near Budapest.

FIRE, which destroyed her last refuge, and a grasping beauty, who would seize her last prop against starvation—these are the newest double blows of Fate in the crown-cursed career of Zita, once queen of an empire and mistress of uncounted millions, to-day a pauperized widow and mother with hopes less bright than those of the humblest of her erstwhile subjects.

When flames swept the Riviera forests this Summer, razing the Mandelieu estate of Zita in their red path, and when Signorina Simonetta Medici served notice on the government of Italy that she could prove her title to the famous Florentine diamond, ex-queen Zita must have raised pitiful hands to heaven and cried:

"Deliver me—by death if necessary—from this Hapsburg scourge!"

Consider what a chain of calamities—defeat, flight, imprisonment, exile, grief of widowhood, pain of childbirth, robbery climaxed by greed and fire—have been Zita's inheritance from the crimson crown of Austria since her throne toppled at the end of the World War.

The victory of the Allies deprived Emperor Karl and his family of the kingdom his house had ruled since the thirteenth century. The scepter which a Hapsburg had held through more than six hundred years of blood and intrigue vanished. But its curse remained.

Karl's attempt to regain his throne—when he and Zita flew in an airplane to Burgenland in the Autumn of 1921, only to find the royalist revolt had been crushed before their arrival—was Fate's second thrust.

Then came Karl's exile, with his family, to Madeira. Then his death, from cold and lack of food. Then the birth of his posthumous child, youngest of seven left in Zita's care. Then another crushing stroke—Zita, trying to dispose of the Austrian crown jewels through Swiss dealers, was swindled out of the greater part of a gigantic treasure valued at more than thirty thousand gold crowns, or $6,000,000 in American money!

Out of all that glittering plunder accumulated from every quarter of the world by emperors of Austria and kings of Hungary—pink diamonds, gem-encrusted coronation mantles, sandals embroidered with emeralds, crosses set with rubies and pearls, the imperial crown studded with jewels of ancient Rome—Zita saved nothing but a few baubles.

Of these the most valuable was the gorgeous Florentine diamond. The stone is one of the gem marvels of the world. It weighs 139½ carats. A pale yellow, amazingly faceted, its blazing beauty so excites the cupidity of all who gaze upon it that its owners always have feared to wear it.

The Florentine is appraised at more than half a million dollars in American coinage. While Queen Zita knew she could not sell it for half of this sum, even could she find a bidder, she could use the stone as collateral for a loan large enough to support herself and children for years.

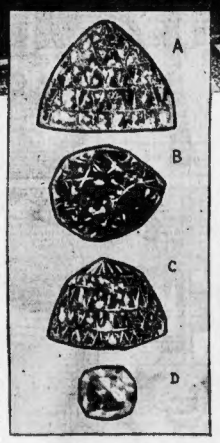
In brief, the Florentine diamond was the last barrier standing between the ex-empress and actual poverty.

Zita opened negotiations with Paris brokers. She had arranged for the placement of the diamond as security for the loan when, out of a clear sky, came a bolt. The Italian Government raised its voice in bitter protest to the Allies. The diamond, said the Italian Government, was the property of Italy. And to prove it, here was Signorina Simonetta Medici, who claimed the Florentine for her very own!

The claim, based on the statement that Simonetta de Medici was the lineal descendant of the famous Italian house which for two centuries gave grand dukes to Florence, opened up the entire question of the Florentine diamond's history—a history stained with gore and muffled in the mists of legends.

Heretofore the accepted story of the Florentine diamond was that it became the property of the Hapsburgs legitimately through marriage. According to this account, the Florentine first emerges in legendary history out of the mystic East as the property of Charles the Bold, Duke of Burgundy.

Charles, a vain man, wore it blazing



Four Famous Fatal Diamonds:
(A)—The Great Mogul, 250 Carats.
(B)—The Florentine, 139½ Carats.
(C)—The Orloff, 195 Carats.
(D)—The Hope Diamond, 44¼ Carats.

in the insignia of the Order of the Golden Fleece. He wore it in war as he did in peace. And, on the battlefield of Granson, when he and his troops fled in panic, the diamond in some manner was knocked from its setting. A Swiss halberdier, combing the battlefield for loot, found it, and sold it to a priest for one florin.

The priest in turn sold the Florentine to a Bernese merchant. The price is reputed to have been a sum equivalent to $25 in American money. Eventually the diamond found its way into the hands of a Genoese dealer, who was the first, after its loss, to identify it as the Florentine.

Don Ludovico Sforza, Duke of Milan, was the next owner of the Florentine. He presented it to Pope Julius II., who in turn made a gift of it to Grand Duke Francis of Tuscany. It was Francis who married Empress Maria Theresa of Austria, and thus, according to the Hapsburg account, the Florentine became the personal property of that house.

But when Signorina Simonetta Medici came forward, supported by her government, to try to prevent the last of the Hapsburgs from disposing of the Florentine, she disputed the accepted story of the diamond's history. She presented as her chief advocate Professor Joseph D'Ancona, expert in matters historical and genealogical.

"I have evidence," deposed Professor D'Ancona, "that the Florentine diamond was, and is, the exclusive property of the Medici family."

The Florentine, he declared, first appeared in legend in the ring of Carl the Foolhardy, and by him was bequeathed to that Duke of Burgundy whose naked body, half eaten by wolves, was found beneath the walls of the city of Nancy. A peasant took the ring. After various adventures, states Professor D'Ancona, the ring fell into the possession of Ferdinand Medici and by him was carried to Rome. It was part of the collection left by Anna Maria Medici in her will.

"The diamond properly belongs to descendants of the Medici family," declares Professor D'Ancona. "Austria took it out of Italy by force of arms. This was sheer robbery. Emperor Karl claimed the jewel was his because it was the personal property of the Hapsburg family. By the same token, the Medicis, branding the Hapsburgs as robbers, claim the diamond to-day."

Simonetta Medici, a beauty, asserts she can prove her direct descent from Lorenzo the Magnificent, greatest of the Medici dukes. She is the last of the family alive in Italy, she claims. And she appeals to her government, which in turn serves notice on Queen Zita that she must not seek to dispose of the diamond in any way until it is wrested from her.

Were it not for her desperate plight which makes money essential, Queen Zita might well wish herself rid of the Florentine. For it, like the Hope diamond, the Orioff diamond, the Great Mogul and other famous gems, has a world-wide reputation for misfortune.

It is said of the Hope diamond that woe befalls all who own it. Certainly tragedy has always followed in its train. Tavernier, who brought it from India, failed in business and died. Madame de Montespan, upon whom the Grand Monarque bestowed it, was supplanted in the king's affections by her rival, Madame de Maintenon. Nicholas Foquet, a courtier who borrowed it, was executed. Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette, who inherited it, died on the guillotine. So the tale of death went, until, Lord Francis Hope, who eventually bought the diamond, became a bankrupt. His wife, May Yohe, eloped with another man. As late as a few years ago the Hope diamond was bringing sorrow to its last owner, Edward B. McLean. Soon after he acquired it, his little son was killed by an automobile.

About the Florentine diamond clusters such another series of fateful episodes, from the murder of the Duke of Burgundy to the death of Emperor Karl. Zita, owning it, has seen her empire fall, her husband die, her children threatened by hunger and disease, her only home on earth burnt to the last timber. The diamond, with its baleful gleam, is at once her most cherished possession and, at the same time, symbol of the Hapsburg curse which seems destined to hound her to her very death.

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

A PROMINENT New York society woman is thinking of opening a beauty parlor for dogs. This will be very handy; a dame can go in, get a shampoo and have her Pomeranian's tail marcelled at the same time.

EVEN now, a woman hates to take her Pekingese among the "Four Hundred" unless he has had his eyebrows plucked.

AND it would hurt her social standing if the dog should happen to scratch somebody without his claws being manicured.

CAN you imagine a girl taking her English bulldog into a beauty parlor to get his face lifted?

YOUR pet may be very devoted, but he doesn't want to have a massage every day just to please you.

NO matter what his age is, he doesn't care how many wrinkles he's got.

ONE woman put rosy cheeks and red lips on her French poodle, and the minute she took him outside the house every dog in the neighborhood tried to kill him.

ROUGE may be all right for women, but that's no sign a dog wants to look effeminate.

AIREDALES have an unfortunate color; nobody can really tell whether their coat is natural or peroxided.

THE Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had to act after one woman for putting mud packs on her Russian wolf hound.

A DOG likes to dig around in the dirt, but he doesn't want his face buried in beauty clay.

THE officers told her that beauty was only skin deep. She said, "Maybe so, but I never saw a hatchcome frankfurter."

DON'T PROMISE WHEN YOU ARDUSE FALSE HOPES

There are some persons who can be baited by fair promises for the future and put off for today on the things which they very much want.

Don't you be the one who serves this mean little trick.

It is far easier to promise than it is to fulfill.

A promise sets up hope in the heart and it may satisfy for a while.

But when the heart has looked and longed and been fed up on those fair promises, there comes a time of disillusionment.

Mothers and fathers do this trick to children, sometimes.

Not all fathers and mothers, but many who are thoughtless of its effect on the future point of view which their children may hold after countless promises that mean nothing.

Hopeful persons are prone to promise what they cannot carry out because the future looks rosy to them.

The awakening is just as discouraging, however, to the one who built upon the promise.

"Castles in Spain" are pretty dreams, but they are flimsy things to take the place of material needs.

The most embarrassing moment in my life occurred during the first opening of our new grocery store. Seeing many customers coming into the store, I picked up the telephone receiver and pretended I was receiving an order for $50 worth of goods. Imagine my embarrassment when one of the men present said quietly, "I have come to connect the telephone, miss."
